EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

JUDGE THURMAN will go to Michigan to speak in favor of free trade.

RENOVO girls are falling in love with a party of Indians who are now in that place.

LET the working Republicans examine the registry list and see that the name of every voter is on it.

WHEN we read the Altoona papers we are forced to the conclusion that they do not love one another.

IN Minnesota they are having frosts already. Summer must have a very short and doleful time of it out there.

HAVE you registered? Remember that September sixth is the last opportunity you will have to perform this duty and ensure your vote.

PERHAPS if Mr. Cleveland had gone to war he would have fought for the South. He is now doing all he can to help the Southern rebels.

ALTHOUGH Cleveland is temporarily staying in Washington City, there don't seem to be room enough for both him and Mr. Hill in New York.

SENATOR STEWART has given notice that after the fisheries treaty is disposed of, he will press his bill for the admission of the State of Washington.

CHIEF MESCOTT, of the Kickapoos, his squaw and five children were killed by lightning near Netawaka, Kan., on Thursday. Mescott is not mascot.

PAPERS seem to be uncertain which has triumphed—Hill or Cleveland—in having the New York State Democratic Convention held in Buffalo.

FOURTEEN more private pension bills were vetoed last week by Senator Blair's pig headed executive, but he has not yet given out his letter of acceptance.

THE remains of a mastodon were found in Dakota Friday. It would seem that even this glacial animal could not endure the climate of the home of blizzards.

WHEN you take part in the delegate elections next Saturday do so conscientiously, and the conscience of every man will surely approve a vote for C. T. Fryberger for the office of assemblyman.

IT must be rather unpleasant for the coal men busy getting out their tows on this rise to ponder over the fact that they will find Yellow Jack as well as good markets awaiting their arrival down South.

THE Mills bill means protection for the South and free trade for the North and the ruin of all northern industries. It is the south's revenge on the north for the crushing of the rebellion by the latter. Hence all copperheads supports the Mills bill.

THE Democrats are making a big bluff when they say they would like to pit speaker CARLISLE against Mr. BLAINE in tariff debates. Mr. CARLISLE is a very skillful debater, but is not the equal of Mr. BLAINE, and, besides, Mr. CARLISLE would be greatly handicapped from hav the weaker side of the question.

UP to date about eleven million envelopes containing principally tariff speeches have been sent out of Washington. This would put a speech in every household in the land, reckoning five persons to the household. The means have certainly been provided for the voter to enlighten himself on the great issue of the day.

ONE OF GEN. HARRISON'S SPEECHES.

Friday last was a great day for Indianapolis, when ninety-nine carloads of intelligent and earnest Republicans from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, came to pay their respect to Gen. Harrison and to show how great is their interest in his success and in that of the great party whose able and honored official leader he is. Will any one recall precedents for the visitations of such large delegations as have been such a peculiar and encouraging feature of Gen. Harrison's campaign? Can any thoughtful citizen, of whatever party, fail to recognize the significance of a long series of spontaneous demonstrations of this sort, that could not, by any possibility, be made in honor of any man who had not a very strong hold on the admiration and confidence of the people who have known him longest and best? Could any one conceive of the possibility of such demonstrations being paid to Mr. Cleveland?

Gen. Harrison's speech to the 10,000 voters whom he addressed was characteristically frank, bold, incisive and convincing. The main point that he made was as to the liberality and tolerance of his party. "It has," said he, "not shunned debate. It has boldly and in the courage of the principles it has advocated, opened the lists and challenged all comers; it has never found it necessary or consistent with its great principles to suppress free discussion upon any question. There is not a Republican community where any man may not advocate without fear his political beliefs. (Cries of "That's so.") There is not a Republican voting precinct where any man, whatever may have been his relation to the flag during the war, may not freely exercise his right to vote. (Cheers.) There is not one such precinct where the right of a Confederate soldier freely to cast the ballot of his choice would not be defended by the Union veterans of the war. [Applause and cries of "You are right, that's true."] Our party is tolerant of political differences. It has always yielded to others all that it demands sor itself. It has been intolerant of but one thing, disloyalty to the flag and the United States. (Great applause.) It has had the good fortune to set in the Constitution and in the permanent laws of our country many of the great principles for which it has contended. It has not only persuaded a majority of our thinking people, but it has had the unusual fortune to compel those who opposed it to give a belated assent to every great principle it has supported."

That last sentence is as admirable as a condensation of history as it is in its epigrammatic felicity.

Gen. Harrison continues to lead his own campaign in a manner that all Republicans must admire. Let him keep on talking. As Chairman Brice says, he "knows how to help his party."

THE story that Mr. CALVIN BRICE was to be retired from the Chairmanship of the Democratic Campaign Committee, which was current in New York and Washington, has been emphatically denied. The character of Mr. BRICE'S management has been such as to give support to such a story, and probably it got afloat on the equity presumption that what ought to have been done has in fact been done. Still it is not likely in any event that he would be dismissed from the post. Even if that should be regarded necessary, the end sought would be accomplished by taking away his functions while leaving him the nominal occupancy of the position. The statement that Senator GORMAN is to assist him looks like a step in that direction.

THANKS to Presidential interference the naval cadets, who were recently dismissed from Annapolis for hazing, have their punishment modified to imprisonment. The original punishment was severe, but was what the hazers deserved. The President, in speaking of the offense, says hazing is unmanly and cowardly. If there were more dismissals, the practice of it, that is especially observed at Annapolis, would be broken up.

ACCORDING to the statement of the Captain of the Danish steamer Thingvalla that ran down the Geiser at the time of the collision there was no fog. It seems very strange that two great vessels like the above, well-manned, should not find in the broad Atlantic room enough to pass each other without coming in contact. Certainly someone blundered.

The Wool Question.

The Centre Reporter attempts to pull wool over the eyes of its readers by telling them that Centre county people are paying a tax of $200,000 on wool and woolens. How the Reporter figures that we do not know, but if any one will consult the comparative prices of English and American woolens, he will find that the American woolens can be obtained at less price than those of England. The Reporter professes to believe that free wool will so accelerate wool manufactures here that we could export more woolen goods. Just how it figures that wool can be imported, then manufactured and then exported cheaper than to do the work where the wool is grown is a mystery. We have always contended that to establish iron manufactures here where the ore is found would be more profitable than to transport ore elsewhere to be manufactured and then go to distant markets for the finished product. The Democratic papers have said the same thing, but if the Reporter's theory is true our argument in regard to manufactures here is worthless. The Reporter theorizes as to what advantages free wool will bring, but the farmers have actual experience in the fact that they can make more money if they work for themselves than if they hire others to do the same work for them. So this country will be better profited if it raises its own wool. Certainly we have as excellent pasture land for sheep as any country, and there is every reason to believe that it is profitable to grow all the wool we need. Then remember that the same bill which provides for free wool also provides for free iron ore and free lumber, and reduces the tariff on manufactured goods so greatly that they cannot be manufactured here.

We believe that the Reporter's figures to the effect that one half the woolen goods are imported are incorrect. Only about one sixth the quantity used is imported. The Philadelphia Times, several weeks ago, asserted just what the Reporter now does, but did not say from what official source it obtained its information, but the Press corrected its figures from the latest official tables.

THIS paper is always consistent and is as ready to criticise Republicans as it is to criticise Democrats. The incomparable difference and superiority of the motives and policy of Republicans over Democrats is what allies us to Republicanism and we cannot understand how any fair-minded man can do otherwise. But Republicans are human and liable to err and last week in his speech in Portland, Maine, Mr. James G. Blaine, if he is reported correctly, made the first political mistake of his long, prominent and honorable career. We must always make due allowance for mistakes of reporters, but Mr. Blaine, on this occasion, is reported as saying in substance, that "Trusts and combines are something with which President Cleveland or any other citizen has nothing to do." If Mr. Blaine really uttered such a sentiment he is in error. Every citizen has a right to and should condemn trusts and combines. It is utter folly, however, for President Cleveland to associate trusts and combines with a high tariff. The fact is that such evils would be magnified a thousand fold with free trade as then the business men not only of America but also of England would unite on an equal footing to force up prices, and they would do it. These evils must be stamped out by special legislation and have nothing more to do with the tariff than the Hon. James Schofield has with the Friends meeting house. But let us just add that if the voters of Centre county will follow the advice of this paper they will be on the right side every time.

SECRETARY WHITNEY of the Navy Department, executed a brilliant business transaction the other day in selling a government flagship containing $15,000 worth of lumber for $10. This is a specimen of the ignorant economy of Mr. Cleveland's party, but the tax-payers are compelled to support such gentlemen in office.

EMPEROR WILLIAM asserts that 46,000,000 Germans should be sacrificed before a foot of territory gained by Germany will be given up. This should not frighten the French because as a rule men that boast the most do the least when the emergency comes.

IT would be real mortifying if it is found that the delay in receiveng Cleveland's letter of acceptance is due to the poor posal facilities rather than to any fault of the President.

PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE.

We will suppose a boy in the U. S. had one dollar and he desires to purchase a pocket knife. He sends his dollar to England and in return receives his knife. His dollar has gone out of the country and all the boy and his country have to show is the knife. That is the practical working of free trade or tariff reform.

Now put a tariff on the importation of English knives. Knife manfactories would at once spring into existence all over our country, and when the boy would purchase his knife this country would be benefited by having in its possession both the dollar and the knife. That same dollar would be paid to the mechanic making the knife who in turn would pay it to the farmer for his produce, the farmer would pay it on his farm, securing a home for himself and family and the receiver of it would invest it in manufactures, thereby to furnish more employment which would necessitate the raising of more produce at higher prices. The latter is the practical working of a tariff for protection Can it be possible than any person is so ignorant that he can't see the financial and social blessing conferred on a country by a protective tariff?

WE are requested by the friends of J. A. Feidler to announce his name as a candidate for the legislature, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention. Mr. Feidler is a native of Miles township near Madisonburg, [and his father has been one of the heaviest tax payers of that township for many years] He is thirty-three years of age and has voted in this county every year since he became of age except for five years when the necessities of earning a living required him to reside outside of the county. He is an earnest republican and ardently devoted to the interest of his native country. In the absence of a candidate from the Penns Valley side of the mountains, he would be, although at present a resident of Bellefonte, a suitable representative of that locality. He is a poor man and a hard worker; therefore, would be in harmony with all the interests of those who labor and are heavy laden. We understand that he would accept the nomination if tendered to him, although he desires to stand in the way of no one else who should desire to become a candidate. He will forego his claim to any good Republican who may be the choice of the party and give a cordial support to whoever may be nominated. We are confident if Mr. Feidler is nominated he will be triumphantly elected. Let every Republican express his mind freely in regard to his candidacy, and if any there are who do not think his nomination would be advisable let him speak freely now or forever after hold his peace.

EX-CONGRESSMAN FRANK HURD, of Ohio has been heard from again. He was seen hastening from New York State to the Northwest. When asked why he was going away from what the Democrats have sometimes called a doubtful state he petulantly exclaimed: "New York is gone to."—(We won't say where, but it's a real hot place) "We can't carry New York, New Jersey or Connecticut, and our only chance is to make a fight for the Northwestern States, where the free trade sentiment is strong among the people. If we can't do that we're licked. We're licked for sure in the East." So far as the Northwest is concerned we would ask Mr. Hurd if he never heard of Oregon. It is situated somewhere in the extreme Northwest and it has already spoken on the subject. Indeed, we advise Frank Hurd not to depend on the Northwest, but to pin his faith on British gold or the articles which he expects to import free of duty from the Chinese ports to San Francisco.

THE democrats assert that a tariff is a tax and the amount of tariff, or tax, levied on an article is added to the cost of the same. This is a false assertion of theirs and not susceptible of proof. Esq. Gephart is a good democrat and a truthful man, and he informs us that the Bellefonte Nail works have sold nails for less price than the amount of tariff put on their importation. Put that in your pipe and smoke it, Mr. free trade democrat prevaricator.

THIS sentence is from the London Iron and Coal Trade Review of July 27: "It is evident from the events of the past few weeks, that the progress towards free trade in the United States, has been much greater than was generally suspected."

THE CAMPAIGN IN NEW YORK STATE

Here is a perfectly reliable telegram which speaks for itself more potently than words can of the favorable—yes, indeed, indisputable—prospects for a Republican triumph in New York State:

ALBANY, August 15.—No stronger Democratic stronghold has existed in this State than Hudson, a prosperous city just below here, yet this year the city and county bid fair to go Republican. Hon Benjamin Ray, a powerful Democratic leader, for years a member of the Tammany organization, has just come out in favor of protection. Monday night he was invited to speak to the Democrats of Green county, on the east side of the river, at a mass meeting called to organize a campaign club. He spoke, but the Cleveland club was not formed. The old man, with marked eloquence and logic, explained the relative standing of the parties on tariff, and the real influence it would have on the industries and wages of the country, concluding with:

"I know not, fellow Democrats, what you may think, but as a Democrat, as a patriotic citizen and as a business man, with the interests of my country and my fellow men at heart, I cannot follow Mr. Cleveland and his free trade heresy. I shall vote for Harrison and Morton."

Other bolters in Hudson are the venerable Thomas Grats, the knit goods manufacturer, and a life long Democrat; John Panusch, a merchant on Front street; John Madden, a skilled mechanic and a power for years in the local Democracy; P. M. Harden, a wealthy farmer and a Democrat for 40 years. A dozen other bolters are counted in this one town among the well-known men, and the tariff policy of Mr. Cleveland is what has driven all of them out.

Hon. Benj. Ray said to-day: "I am a disgusted Democrat. Cleveland has been catering to the South ever since he was named at St. Louis. I am an old man and I have no axes to grind. This campaign is too English to suit me. This question of a protective tariff is presented as a vital issue for the first time in forty years. Up to this time the Democratic policy has been so defined as to make it possible for protective Democrats to remain within the fold. But now there can be no doubt as to the intents and purposes of the Administration. Free trade in all its damning and devastating blackness stands behind the election of Grover Cleveland."

MR. GLADSTONE'S censure of the gross injustice with which Mr. PARNELL has been treated by the Tory Administration is more than justified by the facts. The episode will form a very discreditable chapter of Parliamentary history. The Times published certain letters purporting to have been written by Mr. PARNELL and which implicated him in the plots of the gang of assassins who murdered Lord CAVENDISH and Under Secretary BOURKE. PARNELL at once denounced them as forgeries; this placed the burden of proof upon the Times. With callous effrontery it stuck to its assertions and called upon Mr. PARNELL to prove that the letters were not his. PARNELL then demanded an investigation by Parliament, which was refused; but, finally, under pressure of public opinion and perhaps upon the instigation of the Times now anxious to be cleared of the issue, the Government has created a special commission to investigate the whole subject of Irish political crime. As Mr. PARNELL declared, Parliament has an undoubted right to make an investigation of that or any subject it desires, but it is unjust to him to substitute that for the inquiry he demands for his own vindication. His suit against the Times in the Scotch courts has spoiled the Tory plan, however, and evidently disquiets the Times, which may have to pay heavily for its libelous amusements.

THE Centre Reporter says that because there is not one solitary manufactory of tin plate in this country therefore the Nation should continue importing all of it from Europe. This is silly twaddle. Any farmer can see that if a commodity which is so generally used in the manufacture of tinware were itself manufactured here the farmer could procure his tinware cheaper and also have a larger market for his produce. The Reporter's logic is in favor of a vote for Harrison. Let farmers vote for their own interest.

GOOD-BY, OLD GROVER, GOOD-BY.

The train is coming
Around the bend.
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
It's loaded down
With Harrision men,
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

CHORUS.

Bye, Free-Trade baby!
Rock it, Grover, tenderly!
Bye, Free-Trade baby!
We'll smash the cradle!
Good-by!

Free trade is busted.
Protection, we say!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
Roast beef to eat,
Two dollars a day!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

The time has come
Fo' loyal men—
Good-by, old Grover, good-by?
To shoot the bandanna
And vote for Ben!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

The duty on wool
We'll keep, the same!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
If you don't believe it
Just ask Jim Blaine!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

The same on salt,
Both fine and rock!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
We'll have remain
Says Frank Hiscock!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

No rebel flags
Will be returned!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
Those veto cranks
True soldiers spurn!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

Your colors are out,
The English rag!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
We still unfurl
The American flag!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

And Morton, too!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!
If you can't remember
You will in November!
Good-by, old Grover, good-by!

THE LITTLE KERCHIEF.

It was only a wee worn kerchief that lay in my trembling hands
As I sat by the window dreaming and looked on the moonlit lands:
It was only a wee worn kerchief, but it filled my heart with tears.
For it spoke of my beloved and the unforgotten years.
I thought of the old, old garden, where many a happy night
She stood in the summer moonlight and waved that kerchief white
As she watched in fond confiding, for she knew that it would be
A beacon light to guide me, signal of love to me

But the moon rose over the meadows, the night grew hushed and still,
And me thought that my beloved came down from the old sweet hill;
Once more her hand was waving, once more that kerchief white
Flashed like the wing of an angel out of the silent night.
So I keep the little kerchief, with a trust that can ne'er grow cold.
For I know that my love is waiting as once in the days of old;
And out of the bright, blue heaven there will come in years to be
Her message of old to call me, her signal of love to me.

Our Story Teller'

UNDER THE OLD ROOF.

"Hello Jim! Where have you been lately?" shouted a broker the other evening to a portly, finely dressed man in the corridor of the St. James. The gentleman stopped, shook hands with his friends, and replied: "I've been home to see my old father and mother, the first time in sixteen years, and I tell you, old man, I wouldn't have missed that visit for all my fortune."

"Kinder good to visit your boyhood home, eh?"

"You bet. Sit down. I was just thinking about the old folks and felt talkative. If you have a few moments to spare sit down, light a cigar, and listen to the story of a rich man, who had almost forgotten his father and mother."

They sat down and the man told this story.

"How I came to visit my home happened in a curious way. Six weeks ago I went down to Fire island fishing. I had a lunch put up at Crook & Nash's and you can imagine my astonishment when I opened the hamper to find a package of crackers wrapped up in a piece of newspaper. That newspaper was a little patent inside country weekly published at my home in Wisconsin. I read every word of it, advertisements and all. There was Geo. Kellog, who was a schoolmate of mine, advertising hams and salt pork, and another boy was postmaster. By George it made me homesick, and I determined then and there to go home, and go home I did.

"In the first place I must tell you how I came to New York. I had a tiff with my father and left home. I finally turned up in New York with a dollar in my pocket. I got a job running a freight elevator in the very house in which I am now a partner. My haste to get rich drove the thoughts of my parents from me, and when I did think of them the hard words that my father last spoke to me rankled in my bosom. Well, I went home. I didn't see much change in Chicago, but the magnificent new depot in Milwaukee I thought was an improvement over the old shed that they used to have. It was only thirty miles from Milwaukee to my home, and I tell you, John, that train seemed to creep. I was actually worse than a school boy going home for vacation. At last we neared the town. Familiar sights met my eyes, and, darn it all, they filled with tears. There was Billy Lyman's old barn just the same, but Great Scott, what were all of the other houses? We rode nearly a mile before coming to the depot, through houses, but only occasionally I saw one that was familiar. The town had grown to ten times its size when I knew it. The train stopped, and I jumped off. Not a face in sight that I knew, and I started down the platform to go home. In the office door stood the station agent. I walked up to him and said: 'How do, Mr. Collin's?'

"He stared at me and replied: "Yes, you got the best of me, sir."

"I told him who I was and what I had been doing in New York, and he didn't make any bones in talking to me. Said he: "It's about time you came home. You in New York rich, and your father scratching gravel to get a living."

"I tell you, John, it knocked me all in a heap. I thought my father had enough to live upon comfortably. Then a notion struck me. Before going home I telegraphed to Chicago to one of our correspondents there to send me $1,000 by first mail. Then I went into Mr. Collins' back office, got my trunk in there and put on an old hand-me-down suit that I used for fishing and hunting. My plug hat I replaced by a soft hat, took my valise in my hand and went home. Somehow the place didn't look right. The currant bushes had been dug up from the front yard, and the fence was gone. All the old locust tress had been cut down and young maple trees were planted. The house looked smaller, somehow, too. But I went to the front door and rang the bell. Mother came to the door and said: "We don't wish to buy anything to-day, sir."

"It didn't take me a moment to survey her from head to foot. Neatly dressed, John, but a patch here and a darn there, her hairstreaked with gray, her face thin, drawn and wrinkled. Yet over her eye-glasses shone those good, honest, benevolent eyes. I stood staring at her and then she began to stare at me. I saw the blood rush to her face, and with a great sob she threw herself upon me and nervously clasped me about the neck, hysterically crying, "It's Jimmy, it's Jimmy!"

"Then I cried, too, John. I just broke down and cried like a baby. She got me into the house, hugging and kissing me, and then she went back to the door and shouted, 'George!'

"Father came in in a moment, and from the kitchen asked, 'What do you want, Car'line.'

Then he came in. He knew me in a moment. He struck out his hand and grasped mine, and said sternly, 'Well, young man, do you propose to behave yourself now?'

"He tried to put on a brave front, but he broke down. There we three sat like whipped school children, all whimpering. At last supper time came, and mother went out to prepare it. I went into the kitchen with her.

"'Where do you live, Jimmy?' she asked.

"'In New York,' I replied.

"'What are you workin' at now Jimmy?'

"'I'm workin a in dry goods store.'

"'Then I suppose you don't live very high, for I hear tell o' them city clerks what don't get enough money to keep body and soul together. So I'll just tell you, Jimmy, we've got nothin' but roast sparribs for supper. We ain't got any money now, Jimmy. We're poorer than Job's turkey.'

"I told her I would be delighted with the spare ribs, and to tell the truth, John, I haven't eaten a meal in New York that tasted as well as those crisp, roasted spareribs did. I spent the evening playing checkers with father, while mother sat by telling me all about their misfortunes from old white Mooley getting drowned in the pond to father's signing a note for a friend and having to mortgage the place to pay it. The mortgage was due inside of a week and not a cent to meet it with—just $800. She supposed they would be turned out of house and home, but in my mind I supposed they wouldn't. At last nine o'clock came and father said: 'Jim, go to the barn and see if Kit is all right, bring in an armful of old shingles that are just inside the old mill and fill up the water pail. Then we'll get off to bed and get up early and go fishing.'

I didn't say a word, but I went out to the barn, bedded down the horse, broke up an armful of shingles, pumped up a pail of water, filled the wood box, and and then we all went to bed.

"Father called me at 4.30 in the morning, and while he was getting a cup of coffee I skipped over to the depot across lots and got my best bass rod. Father took nothing but a trolling line and spoon hook. He rowed the boat with the trolling line in his mouth, while I stood in the stern with a silver shiner rigger on. Now, John, I never saw a man catch fish like he did. To make a long story short, he caught four bass and five pickerel, and I never got a bite.

"At noon we went ashore and father went home, while I went to the post-office. I got a letter from Chicago with a check for $1,000 in it. With some trouble I got it cashed, getting paid in $5 and $10 bills, making quite a roll. I then got a roast joint of beef and a lot of delicacies and had them sent home. After that I went visiting among my schoolmates for two hours and then went home. The joint was in the oven. Mother had put on her only silk dress and father had donned his Sunday go-to-meeting clothes, none to good, either. This is where I played a joke on the old folks. Mother was in the kitchen watching the roast. Father was out at the barn, and I had a clear coast, I dumped the sugar out of the old blue bowl, put the thousand dollars in it and covered it up again. At last supper was ready. Father asked a blessing over it, and he actually trembled when he stuck his knife in the roast.

"We haven't had a piece of meat like this in five years, Jim,' he said; and mother put in with, 'And we have not had any coffee in a year, only when we went a visitin."

"Then she poured out the coffee and lifted the cover off the sugar bowl, asking as she did so, 'How many spoons, Jimmy?'

"Then she struck something that wasn't sugar. She picked up the bowl and peered into it. 'Ah, Master Jimmy, playin' your old tricks on your mammy eh? Well boys will be boys'.

"Then she gasped for breath. She saw it was money. She looked at me, then at father, and then with trembling fingers drew the great roll of bills out.

"Ha! ha ha! I can see father now as he stood there on tiptoe, with his knife in one hand, fork in the other, and his eyes fairly bulged out of his head. But it was too much for mother. She raised her eyes to heaven and said slowly, "Put your trust in the Lord, for He will provide."

"Then she fainted away. Well, John, there's not much more to tell. We threw water in her face and brought her to, and then we demolished that dinner, mother all the time saying, "My boy Jimmy! My boy Jimmy!"

"I stayed at home a month. I fixed up the place, and paid off all the debts, had a good time, and came back to New York again. I am going to send $50 home every week. I tell you John its mighty nice to have a home."

John was looking steadily at the head of his cane. When he spoke he took Jim by the hand and said: "Jim, old friend, what you have told me has affected me greatly. I haven't heard from my home way up in Maine for ten years, and I'm going home tomorrow."—Boston Traveler.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

Scatter sassafras bark among dried fruit to keep it from becoming wormy.

When ivory-handled knives become yellow they can be cleansed by rubbing them briskly with emery or sand paper.

A small piece of salt pork boiled with fricasseed chicken will impart a richness to the gravy and the flavor will be better than if nothing but butter is used.

Horseradish cut in thin strips length wise and a dozen or more of these strips placed on the top of each keg of pickles will keep them from becoming stale or moldy.

Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first, and then on the right, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water.

If ink is spilled on colored goods that will not bear acids, soak them immediately in sweet milk boiled hot. Hot melted tallow poured through ink spots will also remove them.

If you dip your broom into clean hot suds once a week, then shake it till it is almost dry, and then hang it up, or stand it with the handle down, it will last twice as long as it would without this operation.

A teaspoonful of borax, put in the last water in which clothes are rinsed, will whiten them surprisingly. Pound the borax so it will dissolve easily. This is especially good to remove the yellow that time gives to white garments that have been laid away for two or three years.

The little white worms which sometimes make the earth in a plant jar look as if it is alive, can be driven out by stopping the hole in the bottom of the jar, then cover the earth with water in which you have dissolved a little lime. Let this stand for several hours, and it is not likely that you will be troubled with the worms any more.

Moths can be successfully removed from carpets in the following manner: Wring a course towel out of clear water, spread it smoothly on the carpet, iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation wherever the moths are supposed to be. No need to press hard, and the ply or color of the carpet will not be injured, as the moths are destroyed by the heat and steam.

Snapper—Yes, she is. I'm thinking of having her join the church choir.

A WEST POINT COURT MARTIAL.

West Point furnishes some funny court martials, says the Troy Times. Some years ago, when General Merritt was superintendent and Colonel Hasbrouck commandant of cadets, a scamp of a cadet, who knew that he couldn't possibly pull through, owing to the mountain of demerit piled up against him, determined to have one grand blowout before he was fired out. Therefore, he got an immense pile of shavings and stuffed them in and about an old shed left standing on the grounds, and one night he set fire to the whole. The fire brigade was turned out and there was immense excitement, noise, and a glorious time generally. Of course, there wasn't the slightest trouble in tracing the culprit. The result of the experiment follows:

He was immediately put under arrest and a court martial convened of captains and lieutenants The culprit, when brought before the court, as it sat in awful majesty and full uniform, was sternly required to tell all he knew about the fire.

'Well, I d-don't know anything, exactly,' he stammered bashfully, 'but I've heard.'

'Then, sir, state what you have heard.'

'But you wouldn't admit it, because it's hearsay testimony, and I've forgotten who told me.'

This made the court very mad.

'You are not required, sir,' roared the president, 'to state what will or will not be admitted as testimony by the court. Proceed, sir.'

'But you won't believe me,' further protested the culprit.

This made the court madder than ever.

'Go on, sir,' thundered half a dozen members at once. 'Well, they do say,' said the culprit very timidly, at last, 'that Colonel Hasbrouck got the shavings and General Merritt set her afire!'

Let us Have it by all Means!

"Let us have a tariff discussion," says the Philadelphia Times. Bless your heart, Colonel, the biggest kind of tariff discussion is going on, although you don't seem to know it. What is more, free trade is going to the wall, dead sure, and you'll find it out in November. As the editor of the Times calls for arguments on the side of Protection here is one:

CLIFTON MILLS,
WILLIAM E. MONTAGUE.
Howard above York Street,
PHILADELPHIA PA., August 3, 1888.

Mr. Aaron Felty:

DEAR SIR—We have your favor of the 30th of July. We have three-fourths of our machinery stopped, and hence are not in position to buy any wool at this time. There are nine (9) worsted mills completely stopped—mills locked up and hands discharged—all owing to the free trade tendencies of the Democratic party. I would advise you to keep out of wool this season, as nobody knows where we are going to land if Cleveland is re-elected.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM E. MONTAGUE.

Let Colonel McClure tackle that. Perhaps he can start up the nine mills and put the discharged workmen at work. There are plenty more just such arguments. Every neighborhood has one or more. Go to the work, Colonel! —Pittsburg Times.

Bugs Bury an Objectionable Snake.

From the McKeesport News.

A short time ago a small snake was killed near the residence of Mr. Fillabaum, the Lincoln township gardener The reptile was left lying on the field of slaughter, and nothing more was thought of it until a few days later, when his attention was attracted to a number of pinch bugs crawling around in that vicinity.

The gentleman watched the operations of the little insects, and soon discovered that they were digging a ditch or trench, which when completed was used as a receptacle for the body of the snake, which was rolled into the ditch and the dirt carefully relaid.

Mr. Fillabaum investigated the matter, and claims that the snake was thrown near a nest of the insects, and they took objections to the body when it began to decompose, and consequently buried it.

HANIBAL HAMLIN'S STORY OF GOV. KENT.

Lewistown Journal.

"The only time" said Mr. Hamlin, "that Gov. Edward Kent was known to make a joke, was one winter day just as he left Seavey's hotel at Unity, in Waldo county. On getting into the sleigh, he found that he had forgotten to take a cigar, and he called to the bar boy and said: 'Please get me a cigar.' (it was before the day of Lucifer matches.) The bar boy hurried away, and pretty soon came back puffing a brand new cigar, and pulling it out of his mouth, handed it to Gov. Kent "Well said his Excellency, 'I suppose I could stand that before election, but it's a little too much after election.' The boy went back and finally the Gov. drove off with a cigar of his own dedication."

A FIGHT WITH A PANTHER.

Exciting Experience in a Swamp in Southern Florida.

St. Louis Globe Democrat.

All at once Jack bristled up his back and began baying in a very decided and angry manner, his nose pointing up into a big oak tree that rose towering above us, its thickly leaved branches shutting out nearly all the light.

"What is it, old boy?" said I, addressing the dog, but his barking only became angrier, and he showed signs of fear as well.

"Look out, Yank!" called out my guide, all at once, as he stood off to one side trying to pierce the blackness of the tree overhead. "Jump quick or ye'll be a goner."

I attempted to obey his warning, but as I moved I involuntarily glanced up just in time to see a panther's wild and ferocious face appear among the branches nearly over me, and the next moment his long, lithe body sprang at me. I jumped forward, but a projecting root hit my foot, and I fell headlong on my face. The panther's leap was wild, and his impetus carried him over my fallen body. As he struck the ground old Jack grabbed him, and then ensued a struggle that for ferociousness could hardly be equalled. The panther sprang at the dog as the latter seized him and attempted to rip him up, but old Jack's agility saved him, and he danced around his foe with loud bays and open jaws, dashing in now and then to take a good nip when the opportunity presented. The fight was carried on around and across me, and my stout clothing only saved me from rough treatment from the struggling animals. All at once I heard a loud explosion and the whiz of a rifle ball as it passed by, and its dull ding as it passed the panther. The wounded animal fell on me, and in its furious struggles with Jack, who instantly dashed at its throat, my clothes were almost torn off me and I received many severe scratches. Maddened by the wounds I instinctively drew my hunting knife and, waiting a chance, partially turned over and thrust it time and again into the panther's side. The rush of blood that followed squirted into my face, almost suffocating me. Suddenly something seized my legs and I was drawn out of my perilous position. Staggering to my feet as I felt myself free, I saw that the old Cracer was the means of saving me. Turning to the affray, I saw that the knife had done its work, as the old cat was just escaping, while brave Jack still held his hold on the animal's throat.

"Well, Yank," said the old hunter as he calmly reloaded his rifle, "that wuz a narrer squeak for ye. That waz a big un an'—oh, my laudy!" Turning to see what occasioned this sudden interruption, as I was clearing my face from the panther's blood that so plentifully bathed it, I was amazed to see the old fellow jump to one side and energetically endeavor to ram home the bullet. Jack, too, rose with a deep growl eyeing the tree above us suspiciously. On the still air there arose all at once a wild, horrible scream, combining rage, anger and revenge, and across my eyes there flashed a long yellow streak as a monstrous female panther jumped from a big limb, some twenty feet up, directly toward our guide. I was so weak and overcome by the suddenness of the previous combat that I involuntarily shut my eyes, expecting to hear the hunter's death cry. Instead of that I heard a peculiar sound like cloth tearing or ripping, and then ensued the same infernal howling, stratching, yelling and screaming that I recollect ever having heard.

I opened wide my eyes, and at once a strange and peculiar sight burst upon them. There, not fifteen feet from me, and not ten from the guide, was the old panther, literally spit upon a big light wood stump. A medium sized pine tree had been burned—all save its heart—at some time. This latter, about seven feet tall, and one foot in diameter at the butt, tapered to a very sharp point at its top. The old guide dodged behind this when he first saw the panther. The latter, in its blind rage to revenge the death of her mate, did not notice the stub, and in jumping for its intended prey fell short and was impaled on the short spit. The force of the leap forced the iron-like wood through the animal's body, the point projecting a foot or more. There the animal was, and as it raged to get off its anger seemed the very incarnation of fiendish fury, rage and pain. It could not touch the ground with its feet, but its paws splintered the wood of the old stub in its mad efforts to raise its body up. It snarled at us and at the dog, and then it would bite off huge splinters of wood and savagely chew them up into bits. Old Jack recovered his surprise first and made a leap for the panther. He miscalculated, however, and the panther's long claws raised the skin on his back in one long, cruel wound. With a howl of pain and madness the dog turned, and watching his chance sprang on the cat's haunches and began tearing off huge mouthfuls. Our guide had by this time recovered from his stupor, occasioned by his surprising deliverance, and having loaded his rifle placed the muzzle close to the head of the now dying but still savage panther and killed her at once.

DON'T be deceived by the smooth talk of democratic free trade. Remember Adam, for being deceived by the smooth talk of Eve, was punished all the same. Free trade is the apple of perdition and if you eat it your destruction is certain.

MUST GIVE WAY FOR 'POSSUM.

We were driving out one Sunday from Decatur when we came upon a negro with a club his inhand and freshly killed opossum on his shoulder. We stopped to examine his prize, and the Colonel said:

My, friend do you know it is Sunday?

Sartin, boss.

Are you not a religious man?

I ar', I'ze jest on my way home from church.

And what sort of religion have you got that permits you to go hunting on Sunday?

Religum! Religum! queried the man as he held the 'possum with one hand and scratched his head with the other. Does you specks any black man in Alabama is gwine to tie hisself up to any religum that 'lows a 'possum to walk right across the road ahead of him an' git away free! No, sah. A religum which won't bend a little when a fat 'possum heads you off couldn't be 'stablished round here by all de preachers in deunyvarse!

Stone—Hello, Upson, old man, you're looking fine; you must have struck luck since I last saw you.

Downes—Yes, old boy; I've struck the boss fake; no more poverty for me, no more small salaries; I've written a book, and my fortune is made.

Stone—I'd like to know what you could write about.

Downes—Hush! don't give it away; great snap; have written on "How to Live Comfortably on Ten Dollars a Week."

Stone—But you never could.

Downes—Nor any one else—that's why they all buy the book to find out.

Stone—H'm, yes—I see.

Mary—Don't you dislike to have a man talk shop when he comes to see you?

Jennie—Indeed, I do! Who's been talking shop to you?

Mary—Oh, my young man. He's a street-car conductor, you know, and nearly every time he comes to see me he gets off his shop talk.

Jennie—What does he say?

Mary—Sit closer, please.

"I understand that Col. Blear is very wealthy."

"Well he's worth about $100,000.

"How did he make it?"

"He made it out of oil."

"Indeed!"

"Yes; his wife lit the fire with kerosene, and he got all her money."

SOMEWHAT LIKE EAST LYNN.

I am told of a case in matrimonial and domestic life, that is a little unique, in the least. A young man married a young lady and they lived together many years, a son being born to the couple. At length, for some reason to my informant unknown, they were divorced; the young man married a school girl whom he almost worshipped, but who shortly afterward died. The divorced lady, meantime, also married. And here the singular part of the story comes in. Today the first young man is employed by his first wife's second husband, lives in his employer's family, as also does his son, who is now grown up and is treated with all the consideration and courtesy due a member of the family. The parteis are of the higest respectability, the gentlemen maintaining harmonious business relation; but the previous matrimonial conditions render the present state of affairs, if not complex, decidedly novel.

She was Kissed by the Kitten.

An Americus, Ga., young lady aroused the whole household at her house a few nights since, screaming and yelling that some one had kissed her while she was asleep. Her father rushed in with a pistol in one hand and a light in the other, but could not find the kisser, at first. The daughter declared that she felt the whiskers on her lips and the fellow's breath on her cheek and that it was "soft and nice." Just then her pet kitten slipped from behind her pillow and she tried to kill it because it was not a man.

MRS. FEIDLER MOURNS HER WASP.

Tragic Fate of an Affectionate Insect That She Had Made a Household Pet.

Mrs. Ruth Feidler of North Bergen, N. J., is grieving over the untimely death of a tame and very intelligent wasp. Owing to a mistake in identity on both sides on Friday night the wasp stung her, and, in the unreasoning pain of the moment, she crushed it out of existence.

One bitterly cold morning last March Mrs. Feidler went shiveriug into the dreary breakfast room and prepared to light a fire. As she did so she noticed what looked like the body of a dead wasp under the stove. The insect had evidently crept there to get the benefit of the warmth from the expiring embers, and its life seemed to have gone out with the heat. Mrs. Fiedler remembered reading somewhere that insects overcome by cold were not necessarily dead, but merely in a state of suspended animation, in which they often remained for several months, to revive as soon as warmth, natural or artificial, penetrated their torpidity. She determined to test the soundness of this theory, and as soon as the fire was aglow s he laid the wasp upon a sheet of note paper and placed it close to the stove.

Within ten minutes the insect began to revive. The bulbous rear portion of its body moved tremulously, the slender attachment at the waist relaxed and became flexible, the belt assumed a more pronounced vellow color, and the big eyes grew bright and bulged gratefully at Mrs. Fiedler. It was worth many dead wasps yet.

Mrs. Fielder regaled it with fruit jelly, and, unlike the frozen serpent of the fable, it repaid its benefactor with every mark of confidence and affection. While the cold weather lasted its mistress had to warm it into vitality every morning but the sunny days of April found it enjoying full health and vigor. When Mrs. Fiedler was at home it passed much of its time on her head, and always fed from her plate or out of her hand. As an especial treat it was occasionally allowed to alight on her lips when she was eating preserves. It would take food from no other person in the house. It seemed to have forgotten that it had a sting, and Mrs. Fiedler forgot it too.

During the four months that it remained in the house it only left the breakfast table once. A tramp at the hall door, objecting to the paucity of brandy in a piece of mince pie that Mrs. Fiedler had given him, was loudly insolent in his denunciations of her qualifications as a pastry cook. Mrs. Fielder's husband was absent, and she was very much frightened, but the wasp darted to the rescue. It stung the fellow behind the ear, and chased him across the street. It hunted him so far that it could not immediately find its way back, and after twenty-four hours had passed Mrs. Fiedler proposed to offer a reward for its recovery. Her husband, however, objected, on the ground that Vesper as his wife's pet was called was not the only wasp in the neighborhood, and, stimulated by the hope of gain, every boy in the neighborhood would bring a stinging insect to the door, and in all likelihood would leave it whether it was the right one or not. No reward was offered, but on the second morning after the visit of the tramp Mrs. Fiedler found Vesper waiting for her in the room. It had returned in the night, and squeezed its way in through the key hole. It evinced extravagant joy at seeing its mistress, and consumed a large quantity of apple butter for its breakfast.

But on Friday night the wasp's fate found it. The family had retired, and Mrs. Fiedler was in her room when she recollected that she had left her gloves on the table down stairs. Actuated by a fatal spirit of tidiness, she went down to get them. She found them readily, as she knew she should. What she did not know was that the wasp was in one of them. Recognizing in the covering something very suggestive of the hand it loved so well, it had decided to sleep there for the night. As she went toward the door Mrs. Fiedler mechanically drew on the already occupied glove. Vigilant as a watch dog, the wasp was wide awake and prepared for action; but it lacked the canine power of distinguishing individualities in the dark, and, mistaking its mistress for an intrusive stranger, it stung her fiercely on the palm of the hand. Mrs. Fiedler screamed, and in the agony of the moment she forgot all about Vesper. She supposed that some undomesticated insect was in her glove, and she convulsively clenched her fingers. When the family, aroused by her cry, went down with lights Vesper was in the throes of death. Its eyes, as they sought hers, were filled with an expression which she interpreted as meaning that its only regret at that moment was for having wounded the hand that had so befriended it.

Black and Yellow Bees at War.

A queer incident took place at Mr A. Lower's home yesterday. A colony of black bees had been living peaceably near a tribe of Italian bees for years until yesterday, when the black bees attempted to rob their neighbors. A fierce fight ensued, in which hundreds of the robbers were killed.—Griffin Sun.

BOTTLES THAT WON'T BREAK.

The paper-bottle industry has acheived considerable success in the West, and is gradually extending throughout the United States. Foremost among the advantages accruing from this new adaptation of paper is the fact that the bottles are unbreakable, while the cost at which they can be placed on the market is considerably lower than that of an article of the same size in glass, stoneware or tin. A great saving in weight is moreover effected, desideratum of no small moment where cost of carriage of large numbers has to be taken into consideration, while the cost of package is reduced to a minimum, for breaking in transit, which is a constant source of loss with glass bottles, is obviously impossible. Special machinery is employed in the manufacture of paper bottles. A long slip of paper of requisite thickness, having been formed into a tube by bending around a circular "mandrel," is covered externally with an outer glazed sheet, bearing any labels to be employed; the tube is then cut into short lengths, to the ends of which are added tops, bottoms and necks of paper—or of wood, if special strength is required—nothing further beyond pouring in and lining the inside with a composition, which, on setting, will effectually resist the action of acids, spirits, inks, dyes, etc. The utilization of paper is constantly receiving new adaptions, a bare enumeration of which would constitute a formidable list, while enough has been said to demonstrate the latest development of this material in the bottle-making industry bids fair to hold not an unimportant part in the varied uses now obtained from paper.

CIDER IN THE METROPOLIS.

I should imagine that cider had become as popular a beverage in New York as it is in Maine. Wherever I go in the humbler quarters of the town I come on cider shops. They vend buttermilk and pop beer, too, I believe, but cider is their chief commodity, and I have never seen a cider shop in which I did not also see people drinking cider. Some fifteen years ago some speculative individual opened a cider shop in an unleased store on Broadway. The beverage was advertised as manufactured on the premises, and in the window of the shop was a minature cider press, which was operated by a miserable big dog that toiled on a tread mill all day and half the night through. I believe Mr Henry Bergh put an end to this establishment and some others that sprang up in imitation of it.

Since then the cider industry has settled on a legitimate basis. That it has already enjoyed the developing influences of civilization is evidenced by the fact that in one of the shops on the east side where I dropped in to satisfy the cravings of thirst and curiosity at one and the same time, I read announcements of "cider and milk," "spiced cider," "hot mulled cider" and half a dozen other curious combinations. The champion combination of all, however, the immortal and soul enthralliug "stone fence," was, perhaps fortunately for the patrons, absent from the list.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

SEE HOW WE GROW.

Mr. Forney, in his article on "American Locomotives and Cars," quotes Peter Parley, the dear old fellow who taught us geography and history fifty years ago. Peter, in his "First Book of History," for the children, describes "the queerest novelty in the world—a road of rails." This was about 1830. The Carbondale road was opened by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company in 1829. The Baltimore and Ohio is the oldest of all American roads for passengers. It was opened in May, 1830. The number of miles of road is now over 150,000 in this country. The number of locomotives is 30,000 and the number of passenger cars 28,000, with 950,000 freight cars. Ah, Parley! It will never do for us to describe a novelty, lest our descendants laugh at our primitiveness and ignorance.

Woman's Help in Maine.

When one of the early settlers of Gouldsboro, Me., bought his farm he had to leave a $200 mortgage on it. He paid the interest promptly for many years and raised a large family. One year when the collector of interest came around he found the farmer's wife rocking the cradle, in which slept her twenty-second child. The collector jokingly told the woman if she would make up the even two dozen, whenever that might occur, he would lift the mortgage and give them an unincumbered title to the place. The next year he was on hand promptly to collect the interest due, when lo! in the same cradle lay a pair of twins, which made up the two dozen; and, of course, there was nothing to do but to free the proud parents from debt.—Lewiston Journal.

'THE CROWNING WORK OF MY LIFE.'
It is the result of over half a century's observation, study and experience. Yet this embodies no compilation of his former books, IT IS WHOLLY A NEW BOOK. If 30 years ago he could produce a book that has had a sale of over fifteen hundred thousand copies, and has made his name familiar in nearly every English-speaking home in the United States, Canada, and South America, what KIND of a book could or would he produce as his Crowning Life Work, WITH MORE THAN THIRTY YEARS OF ADDITIONAL PRACTICE AND EXPERIENCE? The book itself answers the question, and is the most valuable production in the history of book publishing.
The Book is published in both English and German.

GAS FOR NOTHING.

Chicago News.

A committee of the City Councils, of Akron, Ohio, investigated the various processes of gas manufacture to ascertain which was the most economical and desirable, both as to light and fuel. The Westinghouse, the Loomis and the Siemens systems were especially examined, and the committee has made a report showing intelligent and impartial study of all. They report, briefly, that the Loomis process furnishes gas for fuel and illuminating purposes at a cost of about 9 cents per 1,000 cubic feet from coal slack at $3 per ton. But Mr. S. T. Williams, General Manager of the great Iron and Steel Works at Tacomy, near Philadelphia, where there is a Loomis "plant" of over 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity, demonstrated to the committee that where the "Producer gas" as it is called can be fully utilized the gas for domestic fuel and light is a surplus product costing absolutely nothing. "producer gas" is the first product of coal combustion in the producer generator; it is very bulky, requiring large pipes to convey it and enormous reservoirs if it is to be stored; it can only be burned when hot from the generator, or if allowed to cool must be again heated—so that its distribution and use for domestic purposes are impracticable. The gas which follows the "producer gas" is more condensed and is highly combustible. These two gasses are produced in the ratio of about three feet of the former to one of the latter, and the Disston general manager claims to have made 130,000 cubic feet of "producer gas" and 45,000 cubic feet of the other from $3 worth of coal slack—or enough "producer gas" by the Loomis process to do as much work in forge and foundry as all of both kinds of gas made by other processes, thus giving the gas for domestic uses free.

It only remains to be added that Mr. Loomis offered to furnish the capital for the Akron "plant" himself; that the Akron joint committee is unanimous in recommending the adoption of the Loomis system as being the most practicable for general purposes and to be obtained under the most favorable circumstances," and, finally, that there is nothing in the State Constitution, the laws, nor in the city ordinances to prohibit Chicago from doing as Akron has done.

The "Republican" for 25 Cents

The coming campaign is to be one of the most important in the history of the Republican party. For the first time our opponents have thrown off the mask and stand out in their true light as the avowed enemies of Protection to American Industries. Many of them believe, or profess to sincerely believe, that Free Trade will prove to be in the best interest of the country. This campaign, therefore, is to be a battle of principles more than men. It will be a battle in which the humblest as well as the highest will have a deep personal interest; it affects each citizen vitally; the policy of Free Trade or Protection affects the price of labor and the price of every product that is made in our manufacturies or grown on our farms.

The BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN will fearlessly and earnestly advocate the principles of the Republican party and Protection to American farmers and mechanics. We feel that it is important that every citizen should educate himself upon this great subject, and the REPUBLICAN will spare no pains to make this important question plain to the humblest citizen. In order that the paper may come within the reach of all we have concluded to make the following low offer which will be less than the cost of the white paper.

We will furnish the REPUBLICAN from now until after the campaign is over and the result announced for ONLY 25 CENTS.

This should place this paper in the hands of all—even the poorest person in this county. We will give you the best county paper in the State five months for the small sum of 25 cents.

A CLOUD THAT EMITTED TONGUES OF FIRE.

Monroe (Ga.) News.

Saturday afternoon about 1 o'clock a strange phenomenon was witnessed in the southern portion of the town. Mr. H. C. Harrison, hearing a great roaring in the elements, went out to see what it was. Though the sky was clear and the sun shining in all its splendor, a small funnel shaped cloud was seen approaching from the southwest at a rapid rate, attended by a rumbling sound like thunder. The whirling body would rise and fall, and occasionally reports were heard, described as sounding like the explosion of oil barrels on fire. The body passed between Mr. Harrison's residence and the colored Baptist church, crossed the street, then turned in the direction of the old Stilwell place. In crossing a sandy flat a shaft of sand was elevated high in the air, having the appearance of almost a solid pillar.

The body afterward assumed the appearance of fire, and great flaming tongues emerged from the top as from a burning building, emitting heat for some distance, which was felt by those who witnessed the scene. In passing through a cotton patch some leaves were scorched to a crisp and others on the same stalk unharmed. We were shown one stalk that was wrung almost off, and the blooms, leaves and forms looked almost as dry as they do after frost. The body passed into a skirt of pines and disappeared.

The sight was witnessed by several—white and colored—some of whom say they never want to witness another such scene.

CHICAGO AHEAD.

It was an old chestnut roasted over on a new pan. There were only six or eight of us in the parlor car, and it was plain to us that the lady from Chicago and the lady from Boston had a hostile feeling toward each other. I suppose it was because the lady from Chicago had the largest diamond earrings, or because the lady from Boston had the most fashionable hat. By and by the Boston lady leaned over and politely inquired:

"Are you from the West?"

"Yes'm—Chicago."

"Chicago? Chicago? Seems to me I have heard the name."

And are you from the East?" queried Chicago.

"Yes'm—Boston."

Chicago reflected a moment as if to refresh her memory, and then rang the bell for the reporter. When he came she slowly said:

"Po-tah, ask the conduc-tah if he has a map. I want to find a place called Bawston!"

And by a non-partisan vote of four to two it was decided that Chicago was one ahead.—Detroit Free Press.

A NAPOLEON OF FINANCE.

A young man, who has a deposit in a down-town savings bank, called and asked to withdraw a single dollar of his hard earned cash.

"We don't bother with nothing less than $5. If you want $5, you can have it, but nothing less."

"But it is printed in the pass book that sums of a $1 and upwards will be received on deposit"

"Yes; but that's a different thing. You can deposit less than $5.

The young man was thoughtful for a moment, and then he said: "Well, let me have $5 in $1 bills." The money was gracefully fliped out to him. He put one of the bills into his pocket, and handed the remaining four back, with the remark that he wished to deposit the money.

The bank man was inclined to be indignant, but when his wrath faded into a smile, he said they'd have to amend the rules.

ON Monday evening in the Democratic club room several of the young Democrats of the county maiden attempt to deliver their maiden political speeches.

THE "fat sphinx" is the beautiful title which Chairman Brice, of the Democratic National Committee, bestows on Grover Cleveland, President of the Un ted States.

THE London Iron Trade Circular of July 28 indulges in this remark : "As it stands now the states are decidedly g ing for free trade, and this will be the Democratic cry at the next election."

PARNELLITES say they will all bring suits against the London Times. The proprietors of that newspaper will probably wish before long that such redoubtable opponents had been let alone.

AFTER having woman suffrage many years in Washington Territory the Supreme Court of the territory now declares it to be illegal on the ground that the Legislature of the territory, with only limited powers, cannot grant such a privilege.

FOUR years ago the chameleon democratic party was in favor of abolishing the internal revenue tax on whiskey and tobacco. This year they are opposed to it Why is it thus? Can any living being tell what that party will be in favor of next year?

THURMAN takes the field this week and the Democrats hope to rally their dejected hosts with the red bandana. Danger, however, lurks in the folds of that bandana. It has been known to throw snuff in the eyes of the Democracy before now.

Mr. Maurice Yeager is now connected with the Hotel Albion, a very fine new house in Pittsburg. It is the largest and best hotel in Pittsburg conducted on the European plan. Mr. Yeager being a victim of hay fever, is taking a brief rest, during which Mr. C. G. McMillen fills his place.

FOUR steamers, representing different lines, started away from New York the other day to try which could cross the ocean in the shortest time. Passengers will do well to patronize the line whose steamer reaches port last as the desperate attempts to fly across the ocean without touc ing water cause collisions, wrecks and loss of many lives.

BEFORE President Cleveland's tariff composition was written bricks were selling at Verplanck Point, N. Y., for $7.50 per thousand. Now the price has been reduced to $5.50 and the brick establishments will close to await the result of the election. All the employes who voted for Cleveland last time will vote for Harrison and Morton.

THE Evening Bulletin, of Philadelphia, believes that Hon. William McKinley, of Ohio, is the best equipped man to discuss the tariff question with John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky. But Mr. Carlisle refuses to debate with Mr. McKinley as he declined to speak from the same platform at a southern literary gathering to which both gentlemen were invited for that purpose.

WHOM the gods would destroy they first make mad. Cleveland is very mad with the Democratic national committee, because they are unable to perform impossibil ties. He blames the committee for the lack of enthusiasm in the ranks of his party. How any enthsiasm can be expected with Cleveland as a candida'e, and free trade as a platform, is more than can be seen with the ordinary eye.

SENATOR BLAIR has introduced a mill which provides for preliminary negotiations toward annexing Canada to the United States, with the consent of England. It is hardly probable that the bill will be passed at this session of Congress nevertheless it is creating much talk. Public opinion on this Canadian question can hardly be said to have crystalized sufficiently to indicate upon which side it is.

SENATOR FRYE, who is in charge of the fishieres treaty, is anxious to bring the treaty to a vote, and has given notice that beginning with to-day he proposes to press it to the exclusion of all other business, until it is settled. The democratic Senators, who have indulged in some vague threats of filibustering in order to prevent a vote, will hardly dare to execute their threats, as filibustering is a two edged sword that is dangerous.

IT seems to us that the Democracy of Lycoming county did a very unaccountable and reprehensible action when, at their primary elections, they instructed by a large majority for John J. Metzgar for candidate for President Judge over such an honorable gentleman and accomplished jurist as Hon. Hugh H. Cummin, the present incumbent, who during his term in office has reflected honor on the place. But their terrible mistake will result in the election of whoever may be the Republican candidate.

MR. SACHUUS' DREAM.

A Chicago dispatch says: Martin Sachuus, of the Skandinavon, whose wife was lost on the Geiser, was found by a reporter this morning at his home. On the announcement of the sad news the bereaved husband burst into tears and anxiously inquired for particulars.

"We were married five years ago," he said brushing aside the tears, "at Christiania, Norway, her home. Her father is a Lutheran minister of that city. Eight days after the wedding we started for Chicago. She was going to visit her home for the first time since then She had a premonition that she would not reach home, and talked of waiting until the next steamer. I insisted that she should go on this to avoid the fall storms. I wish I had not, I dreamed last night the vessel she was on had sunk. She was the best swimmer in the Christiana Natatorium, but I can't glean much hope from that, for a woman in the ocean waves is but a feather. I still hope she may be saved. She wrote me a letter from New York full of happy thoughts. Miss Solberg, of this city, was on the Geiser with her She, too, I suppose, is lost."

THE JUDGE'S WIT.

Second blind man—"No."

First blind man—"Let's have a glimmer. You shuffle and I'll out."

The cemetery of wit—She (in the humorist's sanctum)—"This enormus scrap book of clippings, Mr. Jokem—why have you labeled it "The Chestnut Burr?"

Jokem—"Because I open it in order to find out what not to write."

"What a simple and modest bathing suit Miss Spider always wears," remarked the minister.

"Yes," replied Miss Vivacity, unconsciously, "You will always find a girl modest at the seaside when she weighs only 85 pounds."

Merely rehearsing—"You seem very fond of bathing, Miss Montrose," remarked Merritt, at Ocean Grove.

"Not in the least," she replied, with a modest blush; "but I'm obliged to go on the burlesque stage this fall and the manager told me this was the best way for a girl to get over her bashfullness about wearing tights.

Bella's little sister was asked to describe Bella's lover by a friend of the family; she did very well till she came to the whiskers, and then she hesitated: "They're some kind of lovely meat whiskers, but it isn't beefsteak, and I can't think."

She had heard Bella say, "The mutton chop is so becoming to you, Algernon."

The Howard Iron Works.

The community was somewhat surprised upon the announcement in last week's papers of the proposed sale of the entire property of B. Lauth, by the Sheriff. A brief statement as to the cause of this unlooked for event might be of interest to our many readers.

Up to within two years Mr. B. Lauth was the entire owner of the property which is now offered for sale, and his financial position was considered impregnable, as his credit ranked A No 1. among business men.

About one year ago last May, Mr. Lauth sold one half interest in what was known as the forge and rolling mill property which included fifteen acres of land, one forge, puddling mill, bar mill, foundry, machine shop, rolling mill and ten dwelling houses. The parties purchasing were the firm of Moshan & Bancroft, of Chicago, and a Mr. Krauft, of Jolliet, Ill. These parties with Mr. B. Lauth and his son, John N., formed "Howard Rolling Mill Co., Limited," Mr. John Lauth acting as secretary and manager for the new company. The company commenced improving the property and the reconstruction of the old hoop mill into a "steel wire rod mill." A disagreement as to the mode of conducting improvements sprang up between the parties, work on them slackened and a fire burned down the intended rod mill.

After the fire the Chicago part of the firm came on and took charge of the works, erecting a new rod mill and putting new machinery in it adapted for the manufacture of rods, Mr. George Bancroft of the Company acting as manager.

Under the management of Bancroft, against the wish and consent of B. Lauth who was half owner of the property of the Company and against his protest, the manager contracted considerable indebtedness, which, we are told, was liquidated by the Baker Wire Co.

In the mean time Mr. Krauft, of Illinois, and one of the partners, failed and the firm of Moshan & Bancroft, of Chicago, became financially embarassed. The Baker Wire Co. of DesMoines, Iowa, and of Lockport, Ill., who had previously given financial aid to the firm of Moshan & Bancroft, offered to purchase the Howard Rolling Mill Co., (limited) property, providing Bancroft would purchase B. Lauth's half interest, which was consummated by George Bancroft, giving B. Lauth his individual note, and a portion of the Baker Wire Company became the sole proprietor of the Howard Rolling Mill Co., limited. A short time after this transaction the firm of Bancroft & Moshan, of Chicago, failed, and all Mr. Lauth has to show for his original sale of the Howard Rolling Mill Co., limited, is George Brancroft's individnal note given for one half interest in the properties, the price of the first half interest never having been paid him by the Chicago parties.

The Baker Wire Co., took possession of the company's property, completed the rod mill and commenced the manufacture of steel wire rods. The cost of making them overrun the profits and last April the works were indefinitely closed down.

A few weeks ago the Baker Wire Co. entered suit against the Howard Rolling Mill Co., limited, for twenty thousand dollars for money furnished it in making the necessary improvements to its property, which suit will be decided at our coming Court.

Previous to the formation of the Howard Rolling Mill Co., limited, Hon. Simon Cameron held a mortgage, or judgment of ten thousand dollars against the estate of B. Lauth. In the negotiations between Mr. Lauth and Bancroft, the Chicago parties were to pay off the Cameron claim, which they failed to do Mr. Cameron hearing of the suit being instituted by the Baker Wire Co., against the rolling mill company concluded he had better look after his interests in the premises, hence the execution now in the hands or the Sheriff. These are the facts as stated to us by some of the interested parties We hope the entanglement will be unraveled and these valuable works put in operation again without loss to Mr. Lauth.

—Meeting of the Republican League Friday night.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company should provide the conductors on their passenger trains with storm coats. With what wonderful persistence and violence the rain came down on Tuesday Well, when the 5 o'clock train arrived there was a peach car to be attached to the train and taken away. This required some shifting to get the car in its proper place and the handsome conductor had to get out the car and turn the switches. He had an umbrella to shield him, but what is an umbrella in keeping the rain from a fine blue suit? Besides, stooping to turn the switch and while in horizontal position his head was too far one way to get the benefit of the umbrella shield and his opposite part was too far the other way, only his back being protected from rain. Thus, the conductor got wet and must continue in damp clothes through all the rest of his journey. It is positively cruel on the part of the rich corporation not to provide storm coats, and that, too, of a handsome pattern, to accord with the natty blue uniforms which each one wears. Besides, the conductors are usually first class men and we object to have them so exposed to the elements. 'Tis true that rain seldom falls as it fell on Tuesday and passenger trains don't pick up empty peach cars at every station, but be prepared for every emergency.

This was the wail of a man who had endured the tortures of "liver complaint" and dyspepsia for years; and he might have endured them for life, had he not heard that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would make him a well man. He gave it a trial and was cured. Once he was hollow-eyed, emaciated, and slowly tottering toward the tomb; but now he is vigorous, robust and healthy. There is nothing that can compare with the "Discovery" as a curative agent for sour stomach, constipation, impure blood and billiousness.

He brings to his new position a high reputation for scholarship and ability, and a record of unusual success as a teacher.

DAN RICE PRAISES THE CIRCUS.

"Uncle Dan" Rice sat in a box at the Robbins Winter Circus, in the American Institute building, on Friday night and talked circus lore by the yard. In the course of his observations he remarked, "Well Robbins ain't a robbin' anybody with this show." Indeed, the venerable clown was greatly pleased with the Winter Circus. The receipts of the past week have, Mr. Robbins says, fully fortified his belief that a clean old fashioned circus could be made one of the prominent features of New York's round of winter amusements.—New York Tribune

—The young men of class No. 8, of the Presbyterian Sunday school, met at the house of John C. Miller, their teacher, on Monday evening last and decided to give an ice cream festival in the chapel yard on next Tuesday evening. The proceeds are to be used in building a fence in the rear of the church. It is only necessary to mention this fact to insure large patronage.

—The quarterly union temperance meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. The speaker of the evening will be Rev. Mr. Speer, of Huntingdon. The young gentleman is very talented and wherever he has spoken has attracted large congregations. In Princeton college, where he was a student, he was known as one of the brightest in his class.

A weapon is being used against the Republicans by the wide publication of the fact that James G. Blaine, Jr., will not vote for Harrison and Morton this fall. The truth is that neither he nor little James G. Blaine 3d is qualified by age to vote. But they are both precocious, and will vote yet if they live.

Henry George makes the astonishing discovery that protection is destroying American manhood. This is the silliest nonsense yet. Mr. Blaine wishes every workingman in this country could see what he saw on the other side of the great pond. Next to seeing it, the best thing is to hear Mr. Blaine telling about it, and, if the intelligent workingman will follow the utterances of this great leader throughout this campaign, he will vote just as right as he would if he crossed the ocean and saw the condition of European labor with his own eyes.—New York Press.

This is a peculiar campaign, Horatio. Among the candidates we have a statesman "who has plenty of backbone," although he is apparently composed entirely of corpulency; an old Roman, who never saw Rome; labor candidates who wouldn't know labor if they saw it through the Lick telescope, and others, as the auctioneers say, too numerous to mention. You can suit yourself in the matter of candidates, and if you don't see the one you want, ask for him.—Nebraska State Journal.

PROF. LOISETTE WINS IN COURT.

"Chief Justice Van Brunt, holding the Special Term of the Supreme Court on the application of Nelson Smith and Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, made the injunction in favor of Prof. Loisette, restraining George S. Fellows from publishing his Memory System perpetual.

"Dr. William A. Hammond, Daniel Greenleaf Thompson, author of a work on psychology, and several other professors testified that Prof. Loisette's system was original, being a new departure in the education of memory. The Court ordered Fellows to deliver up to Prof. Loisette the stereotype plates and all the books in his control. Over nine thousand copies of the pirated edition were delivered up yesterday."

We are informed full details will be furnished in the prospectus sent post free by Prof. A. Loisette, 238 Fifth Avenue, New York.

The benefits of cold water—The prohibition speaker had occupied a half hour while waiting for the principal orator of the evening, and had closed a long sentence with, "But the reasons I have given you are but a few of those that could be given to show the benefits of cold water," when a telegram was put in his hand.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. ### A BILLIANT HOP.

The company that assembled at the Bush House, Friday night, in acceptance of invitation from the young gentlemen of the Bellefonte Club, was large and brilliant. It included representatives of society in all the neighboring and some distant cities.

The grand march was begun about 9 o'clock, the gentlemen with their fair partners being successively presented to three of the chaperons, who formed a pretty picture as they sat together near the entrance to the dancing hall. The three ladies, Mrs T R Reynolds, Mrs Cameron Burnside and Mrs George W Jackson, wore toilets of black lace and diamonds. Not only are they handsome ladies, but they enjoy such festivities and Mrs Burnside danced several times during the evening.

After all except the late arrivals had assembled the dance was commenced to the music of the Stopper and Fisk orchestra, of Williamsport. The extreme heat was the only obstacle to absolute enjoyment. The scene was very brilliant. Most of the young ladies were in costumes of white silk or lace, or softly shaded textures. Fully one half of the costumes were slightly decoliete. Some were of the most expensive material and had been ordered direct from Worth in Paris.

Miss Weldon, of Lock Haven, wore a white lace Worth costume. Mrs Brew, of Ridgeway, was radiantly beautiful as usual in costume of Nile green. Miss Elsie Barrows, of Lock Haven, was richly and beautifully attired. Miss Wollerton, of West Chester, wore an exquisite toilet of new and beautiful shade of blue. Miss Gertrude Woodcock, of Altoona, in ashes of roses satin with corsage bouquet of pansies. Mr Wilbur Harris and Miss Woodcock led the grand march. Other young ladies who wore particularly striking toilets were Miss Mattalier, of Pittsburg, Miss Munson, of Philipsburg, Miss Hause, of Milton, Miss Quigley of Eagleville, Miss Jack, of Boalsburg, and Miss Dare, of Scranton. The Bellefonte young ladies are always brilliant and many were the comments on their beauty. Miss Harper's beauty was further enhanced by a rich costume of black lace. Miss Mary Morris' natural attractions were heightened by a delicate pink gown. There were between two and three hundred ladies present, including some who did not dance at all, and it is useless to attempt to allude to the charms of each one. Among the gentlemen from a distance were Mr Darnell, of Lock Haven, Mr Redford, of Richmond, Va., Mr Humer, of Altoona, Mr Quigley, of Eagleville, Mr Brew, of Ridgeway.

Mr T R Reynolds surpassed himself in gallant attentions to the ladies who were near him.

Between the succeeding dancing figures, waltzes were indulged in.

The pleasure was continued until after midnight.

The Bush House Ball Club.

The fame of the recently organized Bush House Ball Club has spread far and wide, and now occupies miles of territory. It is seldom that any similar organization has had its good fortune to go to sleep and then to wake up on a clear bright morning in August to find itself famous. But this has been its history. Manager Teller is in receipt of a challenge from the Hope Club of Philipsburg. The manager of that club narrates that they expect to play in Tyrone soon and are anxious to give the Bush House nine an opportunity to cross bats with them, which they will do he says for $30. The amount named is so ridiculously low that Manager Teller will not consider it favorably for an instant as he refuses to let his club play without a guarantee of $400 for each game. When we learn the personnel of the club and their high standing as base ballists we do not wonder at their exclusiveness.

Mr. James Hamill is the pitcher. He is world-renowned, and has refused many flattering offers during this leap year. Fred Knowles does the catching act. John I. Potter is the brilliant s. s., which means short stop. No matter how fast he is running he can stop short in an instant. The fielders are gentlemen who would attract attention even if they were playing with the New Yorks. Walter Graham is the right fielder and has never been known to be wrong, J. M. Dale is the good looking centre field and J. D. Scravendyke will gracefully leap after sky scrapers from the left field. Thomas Collins has consented, for the inducement of a large salary, to play during the season on first base. "Larry" Brown affords an impassable barrier at the 2d base and woe to the member of the Hope nine who attempts to steal a base from him. John Anderson will complete the nine on third base.

A. J. Cruse is the scorer and will have a large nest of goose eggs to present to the opposition nine. The suits are a fine and original combination of patriotism and base ball. The shirts are of the latest mode in stars and strips, while the pants (knee breeches) are of a bandana pattern. If the Hope Club really wants a game with this dandy team they must correct their challenge.

A PROTECTIVE tariff means home and home comforts for the laboring man. Democratic free trade means low wages, panperism and crime.

The Spring Water all Right.

We do not think that anyone doubted the purity of the water in Bellefonte's spring and we are glad that an analysis has so determined it. Under the superintendence of Mr. F. B. Stover, member of Council and Dr. H. K. Hoy, water from the well in Mr. S. A. Stover's yard and also from the spring, was sent to the State Board of Health for analysis. The well water was labeled No. 1, and the spring water No. 2, the Board of Health not being informed which was from the spring, Charles M. Cresson, M. D., chemist of the board, sends the analyses, and while he condemns No. 1 and says it "is unfit for use, he says No. 2 is free from drainage, there is nothing to forbid its use" for household purposes and it is "a very fair water."

Pennsylvania Reserves.

The Pennsylvania Reserves meeting at Bloomsburg, Pa., on Grand Army Day, Sept. 6th, promises to be an unusually large and interesting gathering. It will be interesting for all Reserves to go because, besides the opportunity of meeting comrades not seen since the war, the monument question will receive particular attention and important action will be taken.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

PASSED AWAY.

Two Deaths that Occurred on Friday Night.

MR. JOHN B. HIBLER, AND CAPT. MICHAEL RUNKLE.

THE VENERABLE JOHN B. HIBLER.

The deep, dark badge of mourning is on two doors to-day. The reason because two deaths occurred on Friday night, only two hours apart. The first of which we shall report is that of the venerable Mr. John B. Hibler, father of Dr. Agustus Hibler. His death occurred about 12 o'clock. It had been expected at least for a week past. The venerable gentleman, (his age being 85 years and 3 months) had deeply morned the death of his aged life partner, which occurred not very long ago, and since that event his decease has been only a question of time. Throughout his life he had enjoyed excellent health and ever since coming to this country had resided with his son, Dr. Hibler. He was born in Freeburg, Germany, and came to the United States in the summer of 1860. The funeral services will occur to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 5 o'clock.

CAPT. MICHAEL RUNKLE.

The death of Captain Michael Runkle was the most general subject of conversation on Saturday, because it was so unexpected. The deceased had been apparently in his usual health and on Friday was able to be about among his friends as usual. He did, however, complain of feeling ill and the wounds he received in the service of his country gave him unusual pain. At 10 o'clock he began rapidly to sink and in a few minutes after that the final dissolution occurred.

Mr. Runkle was a soldier in the late war. He was captain of Company F, 56th, regiment, P. V., and bore in his maimed body the marks of the courageous service which he performed. In the struggle he lost his right arm and doubtless his sudden death was caused by his wounds. He was born in Penns Valley, this county on the 15th of November, 1831, making his age 56 years, 9 months and 3 days. Many years he has been a citizen of Bellefonte. He was very highly respected and widely known: His wife died several years ago. Three sons survive him. They are Joseph, George and Morris.

LIVELY SHINGLETOWN.

Large Crops, Improvements, Many Visitors, and Other Notes.

The highest mountain peak in Centre county is Custer's Peak, which is situated in the Park at Sbingletown. It is 250 feet higher than any other point in the county. At that point the signal service will be stationed, and the State College authorities have set out a large number of ornamental trees there. The mountains near Shingletown are very attractive and several of the College professors and their families have spent almost all af the summer there. It is certainly very pleasant to see the fine crops now growing in that vicinity. Within the memory of the oldest inhabitant there has not been another such a large and excellent crop of potatoes, and all other varieties of produce are equally prolific. Mr. Hess is threshing his wheat and has already threshed an average of 38½ bushels to the acre.

Buildings are being erected. Mr. Beck is building a large and commodious barn. Stambach Hall is undergoing extensive improvements.

The citizens of Shingletown don't believe in staying at home all the time and about forty of them will go to the picnic at William's Grove, Cumberland county. Of these only two are Democrats. They will be there to see Cleveland, and the other 38, who are Republicans, will go to see Mr. Harrison.

The great preponderance of Republicans in that vicinity is accounted for by the fact that among the always small number of Democrats at Shingletown are some who say they will vote for Harrison this year.

UNDER ordinary conditions the 28th congressional district is strongly democratic. But it should not be this year. Every reason presents itself to urge the Democrats of the district to vote for the Republican candidate whoever he may be, The key note of Clevelandism is free trade and Mr. Spangler who will probably be the Democratic nominee, says that he will follow Cleveland's leadership. Well, the voters of the 28th district don't want a representative who will be led by a free trader, that is in opposition to every business interest in the country. All the iron, coal and lumber interests should combine to defeat anyone who will be influenced by Cleveland. That assertion should be sufficient to sound the death-knell of any candidate. Let the watchword be—Republicanism and protection to home industries.

There she should be free from the buoyant footfall of youth, or the tottering footsteps of the aged, for people never go where they are not invited.

CENTRE COUNTY'S GOLD FIELD.

The Karthause Basin where gold has been recently discovered, is a succession of high mountains extending some ten miles in length by five miles in width. Some of the mountains rise to the height of 22,000 feet above tide level. The Susquehanna river has cut a channel diagonally through the basin to the depth of a thousand feet or more, making one of the wildest gorges in the State.

The basin is named after an eccentric Dutchman, Peter A. Karthause, who at an early day arrived from Holland and after prospecting the Susquehanna river throug this gorge, purchased several thousand acres of land from the Holland Land Company, situated on both sides of the river embracing the canon now known as Butter Milk Falls.

The whole country at that period, was a vast wilderness, this place being the nearest habitable part of the country. Peter, having a good knowledge of geology and mineralogy, knew the value of his purchase. He immediately commenced the erection of a charcoal plant furnace, a rolling mill and a large flouring mill. At that time no grain was raised nearer than Milesburg, some 30 miles distant from his mill. His flouring mill soon fell into decay for the want of grain to grind. He was more successful with his blast furnace and rolling mill, as he manufactured some of the best charcoal iron that ever found its way to market.

His pig metal and bar iron was loaded on arks and floated down the river to Haverde Grace. At the latter place it was loaded on schooners and taken to Baltimore where it found a ready market.

Karthause found the floating of his iron to market in that way a losing business, as many of his arks struck hidden rocks in the river and sank to rise no more.

Our pioneer then conceived the idea of constructing more substantial river boats which he could return up stream to his iron works. The first boat constructed on his newly conceived plan he called a "propeller". The wheel that was to propell his boat up stream was made in the shape of a large screw, with wooden paddles attached. The boat had a false bottom, opened at both ends, permitting the water to enter at the bow; pass through the stern on to the wheel, setting the latter in motion; which forced the boat up stream. We believe this was the first screw propelling wheel ever invented and from its model was constructed the now common propeller wheel used in nearly all large vessels.

Owing to the placidness of the stream in many places, and the faulty construction of his new invention it did not prove perfect success. After many years of toil and the expenditure of large sums of money Karthaus grew morose and permitted his works to go to decay. That he knew the mineral value of his property is evidenced by the many expressions he made in regard to the time when he expected to become the Gold King of North America.

Many anecdotes might be told of this eccentric Dutchman which we defer to another time. Since his day more than a million dollars worth of lumber has been marketed from off his purchase, and the lumber is not all cut on it yet.

The land is too rough for farming purposes, and very inaccessable for lumbering and mining. The discovery of gold, and the re-discovery of the iron ore deposits worked by Karthaus (the latter close to the river and railroad) is very likely to soon put a new phase on a portion of the topography of that locality and add many millions more to the wealth of Centre county, for we understand that negotiations are already under way looking to the further development of this newly discovered mineral field and we will endeavor to keep our readers posted in regard to it.

The Granger Picnic and Exhibition of Central Pennsylvania.

The Patrons of Husbandry of Centre county will hold their 15th annual picnic and exhibition at Centre Hall in Col. Taylor's "Fort Woods," on the 18th, 19th and 20th of September.

The change of location from the top of the mountain to the railroad became necessary to better accommodate the people and exhibitors. The "Fort Woods" is only twenty rods from the Centre Hall station on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad. It is a delightful and historic grove, being on the site of "Fort Potter" that was built by the early settlers in the lovely Penns Valley.

The picnic grounds proper will comprise about fifteen acres with the engagement of large additional grounds for the accommodation of the people.

The Railroad Company will furnish the largest possible facilities for the transportation of people at low excursion rates and all the special trains necessary for the accommodation of the people at all hours of the day and night. Special freight rates will be given for the accommodation of exhibitors. Complete facilities for unloading heavy machinery.

The grounds will be well supplied with water on either side and it is proposed to sink an additional well.

A complete supply of tents for all who desire to camp, ready put up, at reasonable rates and first-class boarding houses on the grounds, besides ample hotel accommodations at the Old Fort and Centre Hall. Feeding accommodations for horses on the grounds, stalls for the accommodation of exhibitors of live-stock free, and hay and other supplies at nominal prices.

An immense exhibition of agricultural machinery that will be run by traction engine power, so that it can be seen in motion. Many of the Williams' Grove exhibitors are coming.

Speaking from the main stand every day and evening. Literary entertainments at night, recitations and songs. Stereopticon exhibitions at night free upon a canvass suspended from the trees.

The grounds will be well lighted at night under the supervision of a special officer.

An efficient police force will patrole day and night.

No intoxicating drinks will be allowed on the grounds and all gambling devices strictly excluded, as no business of any kind will be allowed to be carried on, either on the picnic grounds, turnpike or adjacent grounds, without permission of the committee.

Daily papers will be published on the grounds through which announcements will be made for each day's proceedings and as an advertising medium for exhibitors at low rates for the picnic.

All applications should be made early for tents, exhibition privileges, restaurants, booths, etc., to Leonard Rhone, Chairman, Centre Hall, who will promptly give any desired information.

Important Decision.

On the 25th of June, 1885, an act of Assembly was approved which took the appointment of certain tax collectors out of the hands of the County Commissioners, who had formerly appointed these officers, and provided that hereafter they should be elected at the time when other township and borough officers are elected. Simon Rimert was elected a tax collector of Lower Paxton township, Dauphin county, under this act and filed his bond. Exceptions were taken to it and its approval resisted by the solicitor of the County Commissioners upon the ground that the act providing for the election of tax collectors was unconstitutional because of the provision in the thirteenth section that the act shall not apply to any taxes the collection of which is regulated by local law. Judge Simonton, after hearing an argument, decided the point well taken and refused to approve the bond, and the County Commissioners subsequently proceeded to make appointments as heretofore.

Now it seems from a decision of the Supreme Court just published in 2d Crumrine in the case of Evans vs. Phillipi, that the act of 1885 is constitutional. In that case the County Court refused to approve a bond, that the act of 1885 was special legislation. In reversing the decision of the lower Court the Supreme Court says amonng other things that "A statute, general in form, is not to be treated as local or special, simply because of the intervention of some unrepealed local statute, which prevents it from having general effect." The opinion is a very able one and evidently fully considered, and it is also interesting in that it also virtually and indirectly decides as constitutional the high license law. Of course, Judge Simonton was not aware of this decision at the time he refused to approve the Rimert bond; if he had been his decision would have been otherwise. That the tax collectors appointed by the county Commissioners are without power would seem to be the case from this decision of the Supreme Court.

—Cards are out for the approaching marriage of Mr. H. W. Bickle and Mrs. Beckie Lyon, which will take place in Howard on the 29th of August and is expected to be quite an elaborate event.

THE GOVERNOR AT CAMP.

From a Special Correspondent.

CAMP ORD, August 15.

FRIEND BAILEY: The Governor arrived here yesterday at 3 p. m. He was met at the train by the Sheridan Troop, of Tyrone, and escorted to the parade ground by them where all the regiments met him and gave salute. By the way, the Sheridan Troop, is considered the best company of soldiers in Pennsylvania. Battery B came forward and gave the Governor a salute of fifteen shots. He then retired to his quarters for the night. This morning his staff, including Adjutant General Hastings and eight other officers, whose names I will not attempt to recall, inspected the brigade. There are a great many persons visiting camp now. Special trains are running each day. I am unable to give you the report of rifle practice or the standing of each regiment. Camp will break up on Saturday morning. I will close, hoping to see you all soon. A VISITOR.

The District Attorneys.

The recent convention of district attorneys at Cresson was a successful gathering, there being about thirty gentlemen, filling that office in attendance from all parts of the State. The statement that their sessions were secret, as given in the Philadelphia papers, is a mistake. The convention did not; last long and District Attorney Meyer arrived home on Thursday morning. He was selected one of the officers of the organization, as will be seen by the following list:

President—Dist. Att'y Edwards, of Lackawanna county.

1st Vice President—Dist. Att'y Whitehouse, of Schuylkill county.

2d Vice President—Dist. Att'y Potter of Allegheny.

Secretary—James B. Coryell, of Lycoming county.

Treasurer—J. C. Meyer, of Centre county.

The executive and legislative committee consists of the officers and four additional members of the convention. Ex-district attorneys will also be elegible to membership in the organization.

The convention, through its committee, will reccommend two important items of legislation to the State legislature. One is to empower the district attorney to employ an assistant attorney in the prosecution of murderers and such less heinous offenses, as constitute a felony, providing for his recompense from public funds. The second is to permit the district attorney with the consent of the Court, to offer a reward for the apprehension and arrest of a criminal. This will be an excellent change for the reason that such offer of reward must now be delayed until the commissioners meet which is often too late to do any good. Centre county has, on several recent occasions, experienced the need for such power lodged in the hands of the district attorney. These suggestions seem so eminently proper that we have no doubt that the legislature will soon incorporate them in the laws.

The convention will assemble annually, the next meeting is to be held at Bedford on the last Tuesday in July.

The Firemen's Convention.

On Wednesday this paper gave the result of the Firemen's Convention, held on Tuesday evening. We are privileged to take the proceedings from the minutes of the meeting handed us by the secretary, Mr. J. D. Seibert.

The convention met at 7.30 o'clock and J. B. Johnston was elected chairman and J. D. Seibert secretary. Frank Wescott moved that the ballot be secret.

For chief marshal Clell Bamford nominated L. T. Munson, W. Gerrity nominated G. L. Smith and J. D. Seibert nominated H. D. Yerger. On the first ballot each candidate received three votes. On the second ballot Mr. Munson received 6 votes and Mr. Yerger 3 votes, which elected Mr. Munson.

When nominations for first assistant marshal were in order. Mr. Clell Bamford, on behalf of the hook and ladder company, stated that they would make no nomination. W. Gerrity nominated G. L. Smith and Mr. Wescott nominated H. D. Yerger. The ballot gave G. L. Smith 5 votes and H. D. Yerger four votes, electing Mr. Smith.

Frank Wescott nominated James Cornelly for second assistant. This nomination was objected to by the Undine Hose Company and no ballot was taken. Then Mr. Wescott moved that the convention adjourn and let the council appoint a second assistant, which was carried.

Promoted.

We are pleased to learn that our friend, George Wister, has been promoted to Acting Chief of Registry Division of 6th Auditor's office, Treasury Department, Washington City. An increase of salary to sixteen hundred dollars per year is the financial result. Mr. Wister entered the service two years ago under the civil service rules at a salary of $1200 per annum. His friends congratulate him upon his success, and believe him to be the best man to-day in employ of President Cleveland.

—The Pennsylvania State Sunday-school convention is to be held in the Second Presbyterian church. Altoona, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25, 26 and 27. Governor Beaver, it is expected, will make the opening address. Entertainment will be provided for delegates and the railroad fare will be reduced.

The Sunday Question.

As we expected, a Democratic paper—the Lock Haven Daily Democrat—is astonished because we condemn Sunday trains. The Daily Democrat is naturally so careless that such a proposition almost takes its breath away.

But it pleases us to give the Daily Democrat a few lessons in such a momentous question. Our language was not equivocal. We said that we are certain it is wrong to run Sunday trains, and we mean just what we say. There are no two sides to the question, except the devil's side and the side of right, and we are sorry that some take the former.

Sunday is the poor man's best friend. Any worldly pleasures in which people indulge on that day will in that proportion lessen the people's respect for the day. Sunday is in danger, because if worldly pleasures are indulged in business will be carried on, and there will be no distinction between it and any other day. Besides the Bible says that we are not to do our own pleasure on the Lord's day, but to devote ourselves to the worship of God. In this employment alone there is real happiness, and it is a mistake to suppose that happiness is found in any pursuits or diversions which have not the glory of God for their object.

How about our iron furnaces? asks the Democrat. We can reply that any more work that is carried on in them than is necessary to keep the machinery in proper condition for Monday's work is wrong, we care not who does it. But the furnace and the Sunday train are not analogous. In its connection with the work of the week on the railroad it is not necessary, because all the railroad employes will be fresher on Monday if they rest on Sunday. So you see that argument falls flat.

"Be not righteous overmuch" quotes the Democrat. We do not believe that there is any danger of such over righteousness on the part of that paper. It is certainly better to err on the side of right than on that of wrong, and where there is a doubt in the mind as to the propriety of doing anything it should not be done. We know as an absolute truth that any unnecessary work or worldly pleasure on Sunday is wrong, and the Democrat will best serve its age if it will join with us in teaching this fact.

Helping the Right Side.

To help the right side is not only commendable in a general point of view, but is judicious and prudent when that help is enlisted in behalf of the right side of the body, just over the lower ribs in the region of the liver. The most efficient help is afforded by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an anti-bilious medicine of incomparable efficacy. Inaction of the liver is accompanied by consumption, sick-headache, furred tongue, nausea, occasional vertigo, an unpleasant breath, yellowness of the skin and ball of the eye. The author of these symptoms, liver complaint, routed by the Bitters is accompanied by them in its flight. Fever and ague, which always involves the liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, debility and kidney troubles are all maladies to the early relief and final cure of which this standard medicine is adapted. Don't use it by fits and starts, but systematically, that its full effects may result in a perfect restoration of health.

More About the Sea Disaster.

It was the steamship Wieland that brought the news of the collision of the Danish steamer Thingvalla, from Copenhaven, with the steamer Geiser, by which the latter ship was sunk and many of her passengers perished. The disaster occurred about thirty miles from Sable Island in the midst of a heavy fog.

The Geiser was en route from New York to Copenhaven and a majority of her passengers were Swedes. The loss of life was very heavy. The Thingvalla did all that was possible to save the passengers and crew of the Geiser, but was herself disabled and all of the 455 passengers were transferred to the Wieland.

For First Place.

A great amount of political engineering will be done by friends of candidates to secure for their man the first place on the ticket, and the best man will probably secure the coveted place. Then if indorsed by the majority of the people, the election is assured. Electric Bitters has been put to the front, its merits passed upon, has been indorsed, and unanimously given the first place, among remedies peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Diseases of Kidneys, Liver and Stomach. Electric Bitters, being guaranteed, is a safe investment. Price 50c. and $1 per bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drug Store.

—Bellefonte papers are still hanging on to that new depot project. Some people want the centre of the earth and all that is hanging around the circumference.—Tyrone Herald.

Yes, we hang on to the depot project because the depot building is not quite large enough to hang on to. But the excellent daily paper of Tyrone, where there is such a commodious and handsome depot, should aid and not discourage our efforts to secure, not the centre of the earth, but only a new depot.

The Homliest Man in Bellefonte.

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on any druggist and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to cure and relieve all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.

Bellefonte Republican,

EDWARD T. TUTEN, - - Editor

Local Department.

—Are you going to the picnic?

—Stop groaning about the heat.

—Dog days will end on the 26th.

—This is a month of moonlight evenings.

—Lo, the circus bill car is hovering near.

—Vacation days will not last much longer.

—Meeting of the Republican League Friday night.

—Bellefonte can buy a fire steamer if she only will.

—Clintondale camp meeting will begin on the 23d.

—The corner stone of a Reformed church edifice was laid in Millhem on Sunday.

—Wilkesbarre is being flooded with counterfeit money in the shape of $5 certificates.

—A very pleasant social gathering was held on Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. Robert Voris.

—A call for a National Greenback convention at Cincinnati on the 12th of September has been issued.

—The fall term of the Central State Norman School in Lock Haven will begin on Monday, September 3.

—We don't like to see the girls in the several styles of men's hats and caps which they are wearing now.

—Some one suggests to us that if a new hose company shall be organized in Bellefonte it be called the Tener Hose Company.

—We understand that the Flemings expect to go to Philipsburg on Thursday of next week to play base ball with the Hope nine of that place.

—Apple ice is a delicious desert, far superior to ice cream. In addition to the usual favorite flavor there is also the flavor of the apple, imparting to it a crisp tartness. Its manufacture is, however, a secret known to but few.

—A band festival is to be held at Fillmore on Friday and Saturday of this week. On Saturday evening a train will run on the Buffalo Run railroad from this place to Fillmore to take such persons as desire to attend the festival.

—Mr. Richard Beaston, of Tyrone, was slightly hurt on Saturday in a frightful runaway. He and two ladies were in a carriage when the horse ran off, throwing him out, one of the wheels passing over his legs. The horse was caught and the ladies, though frightened, were unhurt.

—The Fillmore band festival, on Friday and Saturday, will be a notable event. Remember the train on the Buffalo Run railroad which will go to that place on Saturday evening, starting at 7 o'clock, to carry visitors to the festival. The State College band will also be in attendance.

—Mr. John Schrack, of Buffalo Township, Union county, is the owner of a Bible which he knows to be over one hundred years old and can trace its history back to the year 1829. In that year it was purchased by an uncle of Mr. Schrack in Aaronsburg, this county, and afterwards willed to its present owner.

—A number of base ball players met on Friday evening in the office of the Keystone Gazette and organized the new Eureka club. The club elected Robert McKnight president and Wm. Perlstein manager. It is expected that they will get uniforms immediately and then the Flemings will have to look to their laurels.

—State College can pride itself over the possession of a very fine band which is constantly improving. On Saturday evening last it first serenaded Prof. Reber and lady, who have returned from their wedding journey, and then the band tendered the entire town a general serenade which was first-class in every particular.

—Meeting of the Republican League Friday night.

—Among the tent holders at Newton Hamilton camp meeting are H. C. Brew, of Tyrone, who has tent 61; Eunice Ebaugh, tent 389; David Gearhart, tent 306; W. M. Heimach, tent 309; Ellen Nelson, tent 353, and Jerry Sankey, tent 283—all of Philipsburg. Rev. George Leidy occupies tent 317, and Rev. M. C. Piper of Millheim, tent 80.

—This is picnic week par excellence. There have been picnics in other weeks, but the greater part of this week is given up to picnic pleasures. On Wednesday the Lutherans will have a day in the grove, Thursday will be the Reformed day and on Friday the large Presbyterian congregation and Sunday school will enjoy themselves in the same festivities.

—A subscriber of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN—our former townsman, Mr. Farnsworth—sends a list of new subscribers in that State. He does so he says because he considers it the wisest and ablest defender of Republican doctrines that he knows of in the United States. This quite overwhelms the editor of the REPUBLICAN who did not expect to acquire a national reputation.

A Pursuing Wife.

HOW A HANDSOME YOUNG LADY FOLLOWED HER HUSBAND ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

A Marvelous Piece of Detective work of Which She is the heroine.

THE PARTIES NOW STAYING AT GARMAN'S HOTEL.

We shall relate a most wonderful narrative—unequaled in some of its features by anything ever told in fiction or fact. Our account may be depended upon as strictly accurate as it was obtained direct from the young lady and gentleman concerned. We shall, however, suppress the names because the gentleman is intimately related to persons living in this county who would shrink from publicity and also because the young lady did not realize how conspicuous her wonderful journey would make her. They at first strongly objected to any mention being made of the affair, but we represented to them that it is better to tell the truth at once rather than to await until the exagerated and false rumors are widely circulated in the Sunday sensational papers. Thus the publication is a comparative kindness to them. They willingly gave permission, only requesting that names be not published, for as far as the young lady is concerned her family know nothing of the remarkable journey she has taken. This narrative will show that she is a lady possessed of wonderful courage, nerve and determination, stopping at no obstacle when her happiness is concerned. It also proves that the young lady, with every nerve strained to the accomplishment of one object, succeeded in discovering, in less than nine days, the whereabouts of a man who was separated from her by 4,000 miles and that, too, without telling her mission to one person whom she met.

On Saturday evening we called to see Mr.——at the Garman House. He is a young man of less than the ordinary height (about 5 feet 5 inches), well built, dark hair and mustache, florid complexion and wearing a high silk hat. His age we judge is not over 30. His parents home is in Mifflinburg, Union county, this State. During several years past he has been a traveling man at a good salary. His travels took him frequently to the Pacific coast. While in one of the largest cities in Southern California two years ago, (the bride requested that we should not name the city, lest her parents learn the particulars of her recent visit here) he met a young lady of prominent family. The acquaintance led to love and during another visit to the West a few months ago they were married, the bride being only 20 years of age. After their marriage the husband frequently asked his bride to accompany him to the East, but she refused, pleading that the journey was too expensive. He however, at length, said that he would go and would return in six weeks. She consented to this and he was soon among his relations in this State.

Thus the fair bride was left at home confident that he would return. But before he was long gone false friends filled her mind with doubt of his constancy, affection and intention to return. Letters which he sent failed to reach her. She could not endure the suspense and she determined to follow him. Yes, even if he were in Europe she would go there. Not a thought of the dangers of the journey alone came into her mind. With her to plan was to execute. She started on Thursday evening, August 9. She did not tell even her parents of her intentions, but called two intimate friends into her confidence and they are perhaps the only persons in that large city of 80,000 inhabitants who know where she is, her relatives supposing that she has gone only a short distance away to visit friends. She assumed her maiden name and when over-curious people asked her where she was going she replied jokingly that she had a sweetheart in Pennsylvania and was going to meet him. Night and day she did not sleep The cars moved across the prairies all too slowly and she paid the engineer a large fee to induce him to make connections. Thus she made the trip in the unprecedentedly short time of one week, and Thursday night of last week found her knocking at the door of the home of her husband's mother in Mifflinburg. The trip cost more than she expected. At Pittsburg she was without money, but she pawned her jewelry. At Mifflinburg she could learn nothing of her husband, so she came to Bellefonte. Arriving here at 5 o'clock she searched the hotel registers without avail. While in Baney's grocery store the lady asked if a man of a certain appearance had been there lately. It happened that two gentlemen each resembling the description and each accampanied by a lady had been seen to pass the store that day. The fact was told to the fair inquirer and as the ladies were known the location of their place of residence was described and our heroine made no delay in proposing to visit this place which it happened, was quite a distance from town in the country. She hired Mr. Cal. Lose to take her, that evening, directly to the house of the ladies described. In less than two hours she was knocking at the door of a pleasant country home. The answer was that none of the family were at home, but that they had gone to the home of a relative of the same name to spend the evening. Thither she went with all speed. Here we should mention that, for some reason (the better, we suppose, to play detective) she was slightly disguised. She wore a dress of deep mourning and her eyes were hid behind goggies. It is in the cool of Friday evening; a carriage rolls us to the country homestead where quite a company were gathered about the front door chatting. On the front seat is the driver. On the rear seat—stately, erect and rendered by her disguise much older in appearance than she really was—sat a lady. She called to the gentleman sitting in front, repeating her husband's first name. He replied that he was not the one called for, but that it was his brother who was in the house. The brother was called and without hesitancy walked up to the carriage inquiring who the fair caller might be. "I am your wife!" was the startling announcement. Then there was the sudden exclamation—"How did you come here?" and then all was quiet. The wife was as cool as a cucumber, but the husband was rendered speechless by the suddenness of the apparition. The gentleman entered the carriage and together they drove to town. This is the story related to us by the gentleman in the parlor of the Garman's Hotel on Saturday evening. We suggested the propriety of also interviewing the lady which was acceded to. Though it was not more than 8.30 o'clock, the lady, overcome by the journey and excitement, was lying down. She arose, however, and received us very cordially. She is about two inches taller than her husband, of fine figure, pleasing countenance and dark hair and eyes. Her story entirely corroborated that told by her husband, but she indignantly denied a rumor—a tale she heard was being circulated—that she had threatened to shoot her husband. "You do not think I would do such a thing, Mr. Reporter?" she asked, to which we did not hesitate to say "No."

Since their stay in Bellefonte the relatives of the husband have called on them at the hotel and they all express great admiration for the plucky lady. Thus her stay here is pleasant except for the notoriety her achievement has given her. They left for their western home Monday evening. It might be explained that the two ladies who were in town with him on Friday were relatives with whom he and his brother had visited town to attend to some shopping.

An Historic watch.

Squire Samuel Foster, of this place, carries a watch over 100 years old that has a history worth noting. It has been in almost every port that is open to the United States. The watch at one time belonged to Mr. Foster's brother-in-law and was carried by him all through the war with Mexico. It was lost in the Gulf of Mexico and lay in the water for a long time, when it was accidentally found by a Mexican, who carried it until it was restored to the owner by Midshipman Rodgers, who had charge of the coast after the settlement of the difficulties. That gentleman, seeing the watch, recognized it as belonging to Mr. Foster's brother-in-law and secured it, returning it to the owner.

The watch was carried by the party who went to Japan to perfect the first treaty with that country. It was carried by its owner among the pyramids of Egypt and was repaired at Malta in the Mediterranean Sea and also at Montevido, S. A. The certificate received each time it was repaired are pasted in the watch and were shown to the writer. It is of medium size, of solid gold and of old English pattern. It is still a very fine jewel and an accurate and valuable time keeper.

—The Philadelphia Record says: "The coal-traffic agents of the Pennsylvania, Reading, Lehigh Valley, New Jersey Central, and New York, Lake Erie & Western roads at the Long Branch meeting decided to advance the freight rate on coal for all points from ten to fifty cents per ton. The question of West-bound all-rail rates was considered, and an advance on the basis of fifty cents per ton to Chicago was ordered. This makes the new rate to Buffalo $2.25 per ton, and to Chicago $4.50 per ton. These revised tariffs will go into effect on September 1st, and the usual ten days notice will be issued to the trade. According to the statement made by a participant in the meeting, the advances were unanimously indorsed, and new rates will operate until January 1st, when another meeting of these officials will be held to determine the advisability of a still further advance."

—Company B came home on Saturday afternoon on a special train. The boys looked weary. Some of them wanted to hasten home in an unsoldierly way, but Lieutenant Reber got them in line and they marched up High street. One of their number—Armstrong, of Lemont—had met with an accident at camp, receiving a bayonet thrust in his leg. He was taken from the car on a stretcher.

—It is said that the Flemings are trembling in their boots in view of the increasing prominence of their new and formidable rivals, the Eurekas.

A Sunday Morning Sermon.

Rev. J. O. Davis delivered a most pointed and appropriate sermon on Sunday morning from the text "Am I my brother's keeper?" In it he pronounced truths of vast importance to everyone, and especially to those who, because of their relations to a large number of people, can improve the welfare of such persons. He said that the theory that when our immediate business transactions with others are completed we have no more interest in them is a fallacy—it will not hold water and is like a sieve. Then he gave as an illustration what he knows in regard to the tenement house population in New York city. The inhabitants of that city, for their own protection, must do what they can to better the condition of such people, for there criminals are reared and the occupants of the stateliest residence on Fifth Avenue will suffer because of the burglar who comes from the tenement house district. There disease is started which will spread over the whole city. So one hundred physicians must visit this district and compel cleanliness. The fact that each man is his brother's keeper will solve the question of capital and labor. The interests of employer and employed are identical. If one member suffers every member suffers with it. A war in Europe would not work to the ultimate benefit of this country as much as we suppose it will. The misfortune of one country does not work the good of another. The Apostle Paul proclaimed a truth when he said the injury of one was the injury of all. Darkness in the heart of Africa effects the most enlightened countries injuriously; so missions appeal to us—first home missions and then those in foreign lands.

Proceedings of Borough Council.

The members of council present at the meeting on Monday evening were Browse, Stover, Hepburn, Brown and Potter. The last named gentleman was made president pro tem.

The usual business was transacted, and reports were received from the chairmen of committees. The minutes of the firemen's convention were read. Market fees were reported $11.50.

Among the proceedings was a report from the Street committee of walks that are in a bad condition and must be repaired. The owners of such pavements will be notified to repair them at once.

A committee of the Logan Hose Company was present in council to oppose the confirmation of Mr. George Smith for first assistant fire marshal, alleging that he is antagonistic to their interests, he having been duly nominated in convention, the members of council did not see their way clear to any other action except to confirm the nominations thus regularly made. Accordingly, L. T. Munson was confirmed marshal and George Smith first assistant.

Mr. Potter read the offer of $1,000 reward made by the National Board of Fire Underwriters for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who set fire to buildings in this place. A motion was passed authorizing the printing of posters offering said reward.

—A most brilliant and notable concert will be given on Monday evening of next week for the benefit of the Ladies Guild of the Episcopal church. A large and excellent hall has been secured for the purpose in the upper story of the Arcade building. The singers will include Miss Julia Valentine, Mrs John H. Knowles, of Richmond, Va., Miss Mary Bradley, Evan Blanchard, Esq., and W. Fred Reynolds. It is also expected that a gentleman from Richmond, Va., who is one of the best baritone singers in the United States, will be here at that time, in which event he will take part in the concert. Every lover of music will desire to hear this treat. The admission will be 35 cents, 50 cents for reserved seats.

—A basket picnic will be held by the Reformed congregation and Sunday-school of this place in Hunter's woods, on the Buffalo Run railroad, on Thursday of this week. The train will leave the depot at 9.15 a. m.; tickets for the round trip 15 cents, to be had of C. U. Hoffer and H. B. Pontius. All are invited who desire a pleasant car ride and to spend a delightful day in the woods. The committee of arrangements inspected some groves along the line of the Buffalo Run railroad and selected Hunter's grove as the finest. Everybody will provide their own lunch.

—People who climb to the top of Point McCoy these fine Sundays and look down over a wide extent of territory can see a great many things happening within a radius of twelve miles and it is well for people below to be careful of their actions as they know not what argus eyes are upon them. Sunday afternoon State College campus stood out in bold relief and the identity of every person on it was revealed. Even Abram Miller and Matthew Riddle were plainly perceptible at Pleasant Gap. Bellefonte looked like a moving panorama of Sunday strollers.

Almost a Fatal Sunstroke.

On Thursday last Mrs. Henderson Stanton and Mrs. Jacob Moore, of Patton township, were out on the mountain picking berries when Mrs. Stanton fell to the ground prostrated by the sun. She could not move and Mrs. Moore, much frightened, ran for aid. She met her husband who carried Mrs. Stanton, who is quite a small woman, all the way to her house. Since then she has been very ill, but is now considered out of danger.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. William Humes is home again from Bedford.

Mrs. B. F. Thompson, of Lock Haven, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Foster Williams, of this place is visiting friends in Philipsburg.

Mrs. Minnie Du Preynne, of Lewisburg, is visiting friends in this place.

Mr. Clifford Thomas, of New York city, spent Sunday in town at his parent's home.

Ex-Sheriff P. B. Waddle of Buffalo Run, spent Sunday at Newton Hamilton Camp Meeting.

General Hastings came here on Saturday and we had the pleasure of seeing him on Monday.

J. H. Lever, of Stormstown is enyoying the religious and social life of Newton Hamilton camp.

Both of them were poor men when they came to this country and went to work in the mines. Now they are inaffluent circumstances and are prominent citizens—thus being living proofs of the fact that the protective policy of this country affords such excellent wages to workmen that they can greatly improve their circumstances, which is impossible in England.

Mr. William Furey, who has for several years past been engaged in business at Pittsburg, is visiting at the home of his father, Mr. Morris Furey, near this place. He is accompenied by a cousin, Master George English, of Pittsburg. We are very much pleased to know that Mr. Furey is not only an unusually bright young gentleman, but he is also an enthusiastic Republican. He remarked that in a place like Pittsburg where so much business is transacted, everybody understands that it is to his interest to be Republican in politics and that a Democrat is almost unknown. Since living in Pittsburg he has had the pleasure of seeing not only the present President and his handsome wife, but also the next President, Mr. Harrison, who was at the reception of the Americus Club, with Senator Sherman and other notables. He was delighted with Mr. Harrison, and says that he is a genuine gentleman in action and appearance, and a delightful talker. As Mr. Furey's affiliations in Centre county were Democratic, we congratulate him on his wisdom in becoming a Republican and hope that his numerous relatives hereabouts will follow his example.

—The Logan Hose Company held an important meeting on Tuesday evening, and, in view of recent events which some of them regarded, as unfavorable to the company, considered the propriety of disbanding. When the subject came to a vote 16 were in favor of disbanding and 12 opposed it. It is understood that the sixteen will withdraw from the company and probably will organize an independent company. A committee will select a room for the purpose. The others, we hope, will continue the old Logan Hose Company which has been an admirable organization for many years and which, as all will admit, has done unparalleled service in suppressing the fires which have from time to time occurred in our town. We understand that Mr. Yerger, the father of the firemen in this community, made a strong speech against disbanding, and that he and several other of the members of the company who are sincerely attached to all that is connected to the name of Logan will continue it. Properly conducted, the Logan Hose Company will always have the respect and the hearty co-operation of the people of Bellefonte. We are glad it will be continued and wish it and any other fire company which will be organized in this community the most unqualified success.

Nearly all of the party were very seriously injured.
